01. THE DANISH POET
June 1, 2007

The Honourable Beverley J. Oda
Minister of Canadian Heritage
Ottawa, Ontario

Minister:

I have the honour of submitting to you, in accordance with the provisions of section 20(1) of the National Film Act, the Annual Report of the National Film Board of Canada for the period ended March 31, 2007.

The report also provides highlights of noteworthy events of this fiscal year.

Yours respectfully,

Claude Joli-Cœur
Acting Government Film Commissioner and NFB Chairperson
The National Film Board of Canada is a unique creative centre with a mandate to produce and distribute films and other audiovisual works intended for Canadian audiences and foreign markets, in order to increase viewers’ knowledge and understanding of the social and cultural realities of Canada.

NFB films are produced or co-produced in both official languages through its English and French Programs, by filmmakers across the country. The NFB has production facilities in Vancouver, Edmonton, Winnipeg, Toronto, Montreal, Moncton and Halifax, and an office in Quebec City.

To provide access to its works in all provinces and territories, the NFB has established a wide distribution network including partners in both the public sector (public and school libraries) and private sector (distributors, cataloguers, movie theatre chains, video retail outlets, etc.). NFB films are often aired by conventional and specialty broadcasters alike, and Canadians can also purchase NFB products seven days a week from the virtual catalogue on the NFB Web site or by calling a toll-free number, 1-800-267-7710 (Monday to Saturday). The ultramodern mediatheques in Montreal and Toronto provide access to thousands of titles in the NFB collection.

Aware of the need to exploit the potential of digital technologies, the NFB forges innovative partnerships with other government bodies and private enterprise to produce socially significant material for mobile screens and to distribute films in isolated regions with little or no access to cinema.

The NFB Web site, which hosts a number of microsites and Web productions, has become a destination portal for movie lovers, students from all over Canada and a constantly growing number of online communities that NFB productions have created or helped sustain.

The NFB is an integrated production and distribution organization with one of the largest film collections in Canada and a conservation laboratory at the cutting edge of technology. Its postproduction and R&D facilities are located at its operational headquarters in Montreal, along with Marketing and Communications, Distribution, Human Resources, Business Affairs and Legal Services, Administration and Strategic Planning and Government Relations.
The Board of Trustees of the National Film Board of Canada comprises eight members and is chaired by the Government Film Commissioner. Six members represent the Canadian population, and the Executive Director of Telefilm Canada, S. Wayne Clarkson, is ex-officio member. Claude Joli-Cœur, Director of Business Affairs and Legal Services, was Secretary of the Board until December 15, 2006. André H. Caron is Vice-Chairperson of the Board while Pierre Lessard heads the Audit and Finance Committee.

The Board of Trustees of the National Film Board of Canada comprises eight members and is chaired by the Government Film Commissioner. Six members represent the Canadian population, and the Executive Director of Telefilm Canada, S. Wayne Clarkson, is ex-officio member. Claude Joli-Cœur, Director of Business Affairs and Legal Services, was Secretary of the Board until December 15, 2006. André H. Caron is Vice-Chairperson of the Board while Pierre Lessard heads the Audit and Finance Committee.
Throughout the year, we continued to develop the multiple avenues opened up by the ten strategic axes of the Plan. The NFB’s many successes and remarkable projects provided constant proof of the institution’s vitality and confirmed its ability to play a driving role in the national and international production and distribution of innovative and inspiring cultural content by Canadians whose work reflects our values, the questions we ask ourselves and our talents. In the process, we have never stopped opening up our doors and building bridges so that – more than ever – our world is that of all Canadians, including those who have least access to resources.

2006-2007: THE YEAR OF ANIMATION

For us, 2006-2007 was first and foremost the year of animation. Their Excellencies Michaëlle Jean, Governor General of Canada, and Mr. Jean-Daniel Lafond, filmmaker, served as honorary presidents for our celebrations of the 65th anniversary of the founding of the NFB’s animation studios, launching the festivities at the Toronto International Film Festival. Those same studios have nurtured unforgettable films by talented filmmakers from Canada, such as René Jodoin, Co Hoedeman, Jacques Drouin, Michèle Cournoyer, John Weldon, Cordell Barker, Chris Hinton, Wendy Tilby, Amanda Forbis and Chris Landreth, along with animators from abroad Alexeieff, Georges Schwizgebel, Regina Pessoa, David Fine, Allison Snowden and many more.

It was also important to seize the opportunity of these celebrations and allow the world to rediscover the work of their founder, Norman McLaren. So our Norman McLaren Year was launched at Cannes, where animation was featured in the Cannes Classics program for the first time with McLaren Classics, a showcase for 13 completely remastered works, which have collectively won 72 international awards! A few months later, the same program was presented in Los Angeles as part of a tribute organized by the American Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

The lives of institutions run in cycles, and in 2006-2007 the National Film Board of Canada came to the conclusion of one of these. The period of our 2002-2006 Strategic Plan ended, as did the mandate of Commissioner Jacques Bensimon, who brilliantly oversaw its conception and implementation. Traditionally, reports in these end-of-cycle years are given over to taking stock and reflection and are full of cautious statements. But when has the NFB ever acted conventionally?
Roots are important, however, and so it was during Montreal’s Festival du nouveau cinéma that this great filmmaker’s complete works were presented together on film for the first time. The screenings were held in partnership with the Cinémathèque québécoise and kicked off an international tour whose first stop was the Centre Georges-Pompidou in Paris. It then moved on to approximately 20 major European, Canadian and American cities. Everywhere the films screened they drew great crowds, and critics offered their highest praises – which, of course, reflected well on the NFB as a whole. This is a fine example of the efforts made since 2002 to shore up the NFB brand image in Canada and abroad. I would like to take this opportunity to highlight the quality of the work accomplished by the Film Board’s artisans, who worked for nearly two years restoring the 58 films collected on the seven DVDs of the McLaren box set. I would also like to underscore the work of the Marketing and Communications Branch, who were responsible for organizing this large-scale campaign in close co-operation with Canadian embassies and cultural centres in Europe. While the NFB – and through it, Canada – is known first and foremost by its work, its domestic and international reputation could never have attained the heights it has reached without the vital contribution of those who shepherd our productions through every stage.

Finally, if proof were needed of the tremendous talents nurtured by our animation studios, many of our artists and artisans saw their works acclaimed by juries and audiences at home and abroad. More on this later in the Report, but I should mention the NFB’s twelfth Oscar®, for The Danish Poet, a work by adoptive Montrealer Torill Kove. The film was co-produced by the NFB and MikroFilm AS of Norway. In addition to the excellence of the film – which won 14 awards this year, including the Genie for best animated short – on another level its success speaks to the relevance of our international co-production strategies, created in the context of the 2002-2006 Strategic Plan. The Oscar® nomination was the 69th for the NFB, and we can be proud that we have received more nominations than any other organization outside of Hollywood.

FOR THE McLARENS OF TOMORROW
Away from the projectors, we have continued the essential work of building the future of our institution, in animation as well as other areas. To that end, last October we concluded a model partnership between the NFB and the Inuit Broadcasting Corporation. This had the support of the Aboriginal Peoples Television Network (APTN), the Banff Centre, the National Screen Institute (NSI), Nunavut Film and the government of Nunavut. The partnership created the Nunavut Animation Lab, which completes an array of programs either supported or set up by the NFB and specifically aimed at Aboriginal filmmakers. The other projects include First Stories, Yukon Vérité and Wapikoni Mobile, more of which later in this Report.

This desire to act strategically was also reflected in the changes we made to the third edition of the AnimAcadie program, which came into being under the aegis of the Interdepartmental Partnership with the Official-Language Communities (IPOLC), which was designed to support minority official language communities. By focusing this year on screenwriting and inviting the winners to work with honorees from past years, we wanted to contribute not only to the creation of quality, profoundly original works, but also to strengthen links within the animation world.

In the same spirit – and thanks to support from the Canadian Memory Fund – the Norman McLaren Year offered an opportunity to reach out to up-and-coming artists with the launch of our Focus on Animation site. The Make the Pixels Dance contest, which was open to young people ages 9-20, introduced close to 1,000 young Canadians to the art of pixillation, and 170 of them submitted original works made in the spirit of McLaren (and shot over music he created), using digital cameras or cellphones. For this project, we forged partnerships with Telus, MusiquePlus, Vrak-TV, Nikon and the Young Cuts Festival, and – once again – these speak eloquently to the NFB’s ability to rally support from private-sector organizations for the acquisition and production of authentically Canadian cultural content.
THE TRANSFORMING POWER OF FILM

While the projects mentioned above made enormous contributions to the Film Board's profile, both in Canada and abroad, they are just a few of our many accomplishments for 2006-2007. The last few months have seen the release of a number of revelatory and eloquent films. Whether examining contemporary situations or looking at our history, we have remained true to our promise of fuelling the expression of the values that define us and how we live. Our support of emerging talent, particularly among different ethnocultural communities, and of young filmmakers willing to articulate their vision of Canadian realities has been fully rewarded by remarkable and insightful works.

But an institution like ours must go even further. In order to allow Canadians – through the NFB – to tell their own stories, discuss ideas and transform their surroundings, we must renew the very idea of documentary. I invite you to go online and experience the breadth of one new project directly inspired by, and in the tradition of, the Challenge for Change/Société nouvelle program of the 1970s. The project, FilmMaker in Residence, illustrates the potential of such programs and is a radical reinterpretation of the concept of the “embedded journalist,” allowing filmmaker Katerina Cizek to be fully immersed in the daily lives of workers at Toronto’s St. Michael’s Hospital – becoming the conduit through which they can put their stories into images.

The unique points of view that our filmmakers bring to the world's great social issues continue to fascinate the Canadian public, along with an ever-growing number of viewers around the globe. Tackling such themes as the environment, male-female relations, or defining our forgotten moments in history, these films have attracted audiences, garnered well-deserved awards and sustained the interest of viewers in Canada and elsewhere.

PIioneerING WORK

Many of these works owe their existence to partnerships between the NFB and public or private bodies. At the same time as we are becoming a fixture in the daily lives of a growing number of Canadians, we are developing stimulating, innovative and important links with other institutions outside our borders. The pioneering agreement signed last year with the Audiovisual Secretariat of Brazil’s Ministry of Culture and the Brazilian Independent Producers' Association led to the launch of a Development Fund, open to private producers from both countries. The agreement also spawned two documentary projects and led to the participation of two Brazilian filmmakers in the 2007 edition of Hothouse, the intensive training program (led this year by Torill Kove) for emerging animation filmmakers.

In the fall, at MIPCOM, we launched Connected, together with Discovery Channel, NHK and Film Australia, our partners in the World Educational Consortium. This is our first series of eight 60-second films for mobile platforms, aimed at elementary and high school students: the wealth of our collective archival resources was put to use in these vignettes, without words, which consider crucial ethical questions raised by modern science. MIPCOM also saw the NFB launch The Art of Seduction, a series of 10 micro-films produced in partnership with BravoFACT!/CHUM Television and marblemedia of Toronto.

Our participation in the second annual Content 360, the multimedia section of MIPTV – which is quickly establishing itself as the global reference point for multi-platform production – confirmed once again the NFB’s capacity for innovation. By participating, the NFB – and this is an important point – is putting its credibility and expertise at the service of private Canadian producers, whose talent is highlighted in these avant-garde production milieus. The NFB Cross-Media Challenge, which we recently launched for their benefit at the Canadian Film and Television Producers Association, offers further proof of our intention to play a key role in the creation of innovative and interactive content for the new platforms that the industry must reach if it wants to maintain its place on domestic and international screens.

A LEADING ROLE IN A FRAGILE AUDIOVISUAL ECOSYSTEM
New technologies not only bring unprecedented opportunities, they also inspire us to work more closely with private Canadian producers to meet the challenges of these technologies. We are committed to addressing the complex question of broadcast rights on these new platforms. As the date set by the CRTC for the transition to digital OTA signals rapidly approaches (2011!), we are very aware that the industry is facing a large increase in production costs, a major issue for everyone involved.

As Jacques Bensimon noted during a tribute evening to celebrate his remarkable contribution to the flowering of the NFB over the last five years: “Canada exists in a very fragile audiovisual ecosystem. It is an environment that’s evolving through an interdependence of public and private institutions.” For years now we’ve hoped and prayed for a proper feature-length documentary policy to contribute to the health of this ecosystem. In the same spirit, this past year we began thinking about creating a similar policy for short film production. The success of the many projects we have undertaken in this area over the last five years has allowed all industry players in short film to gauge the popularity of the genre and its crucial role as an incubator of new talent.

For several years, the NFB has been actively working on the advent of e-cinema. We have seen countries such as the UK, China and Brazil gradually funding more and more dense networks, allowing far-flung communities to have access — at minimal cost — to a wide range of audiovisual works. We are very pleased, then, to be preparing to put in place an e-cinema pilot project in three Acadian communities. This project, a partnership with industry stakeholders and funded by IPOLC, will make films accessible to people who would not otherwise see them.
This year we continued to enhance the Film Board in order to respond even better to the changing needs of the field in which we work. The interim Director of French Program, Claude Bonin, carried out a restructuring that, among other things, allowed us to consolidate filmmaking in French outside Quebec. The thorough transformation of the new Marketing and Communications Branch, begun last year, means that we can better serve our productions in each of their markets and also better position the NFB overall as an institution. Our Norman McLaren Year is emblematic of this renewal.

Finally, I would like to take this opportunity once again to offer my warmest thanks to Jacques Bensimon, Government Film Commissioner and NFB Chairman from 2001 to 2006, for his work at the helm of this institution, and for his contributions to Canadian film. Driven by his unwavering passion for the National Film Board and Canadian cinema, he has led us to renew our institution from within, and to extend its visibility further than ever both in Canada and around the world.

The new Government Film Commissioner and Chairperson of the Film Board has now been appointed: Tom Perlmutter, hitherto Director General of the NFB’s English Program. More than anyone, Tom has been at the centre of the NFB’s transformations over the last five years. His work has gone a long way in helping to reposition the NFB as both producer and distributor, able to capitalize on the most recent technological advances, open to diversity in the broadest sense and able to provide Canadians with a platform to tell their stories to the world. The Film Board’s employees and partners will find in Tom a competent helmsman with a vision of the NFB for the future. We warmly welcome his appointment and look forward to a new cycle under his governance at the National Film Board of Canada.
01. THE REFUGEES OF THE BLUE PLANET

NFB LIVELY AND DIVERSE
The last strategic planning cycle was launched in January 2002 and ended in December 2006. It confirmed the NFB’s indispensable role as producer and public distributor of distinctive, daring and relevant audiovisual works reflecting cultural diversity and presenting Canada and the world with a unique Canadian perspective.

This work as producer and distributor is underpinned by research and consideration, usually in close cooperation with all the other industry players. Once more this year, the Film Board benefited from the invaluable support of the Board of Trustees and the contribution of its consultative committee. The Doc Summit that the NFB organizes each year as part of the Hot Docs festival was also a perfect opportunity for industry members, from both public and private sectors, to discuss their concerns and visions for the future. Throughout the year, the NFB has taken the necessary measures to stay abreast of current issues and find innovative and stimulating ways of confronting them.

This year the Film Board has been working on its position concerning e-cinema. Throughout the year we kept an alert eye on the literature about new distribution methods and digital platforms and also wrote a vision document entitled “Towards a Digital Strategy for the NFB,” which led to the creation of a horizontal work group involving all branches. In addition, the NFB drew up a policy on versions in both official languages, which came into effect on April 1, 2007, and also prepared two action plans, one on ethics and risk management and the other on cultural diversity.

Finally, the NFB began re-thinking all its projects involving producing, broadcasting and distributing short film. The Board recognizes the importance of this format, particularly for emerging filmmakers, and the growing interest in it in Canada and elsewhere.
Where do we live? In Radiant City, the way Gary Burns and Jim Brown look at our constantly expanding suburbs pushes back the borders of the conventional documentary and forces us to think about what underpins our collective life choices. By way of contrast, but dealing with similar matters, Sergio Kirby's WAL-TOWN the Film follows six young activists as they tour 36 Wal-Marts across Canada, trying to educate the public about the impact of these stores on our communities.

In a different vein, Rodrigue Jean celebrates the work of one of the great Acadian artists with L'extrême frontière, l'oeuvre poétique de Gérald Leblanc, while Serge Giguère's Driven by Dreams demonstrates the passion and joie de vivre of its protagonists (aged 72 to 94!) who prove that it's possible to grow old happily. This eloquent and humane film won the Jutra for best documentary. With Waban-Aki: People from Where the Sun Rises, Alanis Obomsawin delivers her 34th feature and goes back to her roots to understand the identity questions confronting her people today.

A sign of the times perhaps: the subject of many films was the human body. In her first documentary, La peau et les os, après... Hélène Bélanger-Martin, who suffered from anorexia and acted in Johanne Prégent’s 1988 film La peau et les os, takes a clear-eyed look at the terrible ravages caused by eating disorders. Old as Moses but still incurable, stuttering affects 1% of the world’s population. John Paskievitch, director of Unspeakable and a stutterer himself, decided to tackle the subject head on, assess the research and uncover the mysteries and difficulties of everyday life caused by this speech impediment.

A sign of the times perhaps: the subject of many films was the human body.

SEEING THE WORLD
The films that invite us to look outside our country also reflect our main preoccupations, one of which is of course the environment: Following the Canadian photographer Edward Burtynsky to China, Jennifer Baichwal shot Manufactured Landscapes, a horrifying film about the ravages of industrialization in that emerging power. Co-produced by the NFB, Mercury Film and Foundry Film, this eloquent work received the Toronto City Award as part of the Toronto International Film Festival and the Genie for Best Documentary. In The Refugees of the Blue Planet, co-produced by the NFB, Productions Virage and Point du jour, Hélène Choquette and Jean-Philippe Duval shed light on the little-known situation of a new category of displaced people: environmental refugees.

Our ignorance of Arab cultures and the sometimes shocking constraints imposed on women in some Arab societies have also attracted our filmmakers. In Reema, There and Back, Paul Émile d’Entremont approached these tensions by filming a young woman whose mother is Canadian and father Iraqi and who goes to meet the latter whom she hardly knows. Carmen Garcia’s Nadia’s Journey, co-produced with the NFB and co-directed with its protagonist Nadia Zouaoui, looks at the Kabylia region of Algeria, to which Zouaoui returns after 18 years. She meets the women who live, semi-imprisoned, cut off from the world and at the mercy of their husbands. This unequivocal, intimate and brave film won the Caméra au poing award at the Rencontres internationales du documentaire de Montréal. Finally, with Le blues de l’Orient, winner of the Award for Best Reportage at the International Festival of Films on Art, Florence Strauss gives us her ode to cultural fusion, borne on the timeless notes of classical Arab music. The NFB co-produced this documentary with Les Films d’ici, Amythos Film Inc. and Bel Air Media.

Each year the crop of NFB productions (75 in 2006-2007) and co-productions (52) offers a striking look at Canadians’ concerns.
PRESENT AND FUTURE ANIMATORS
This McLaren Year was also the 65th anniversary of the NFB animation studios, and their 2006-2007 productions have maintained high standards. As soon as it was released, Georges Schwizgebel's Jeu began to garner awards in various international festivals. Two films produced as part of Talespinners 2, a series of short multicultural stories for children aged five to nine, charmed young audiences: Jonathan Ng’s Asthma Tech, the adventures of a boy with asthma, and Lilian Chan’s Jaime Lo, small and shy, about the tricks a girl adopts to cope with her father’s absence. The theme of childhood and geographical distance also figures in Diane Obomsawin’s Here and There. All three films won awards: the first at the Chicago International Children’s Film Festival and the two others at the Ottawa International Animation Festival.

REACHING THE PUBLIC
Now able to avail itself of versatile new technologies, this year the NFB produced no fewer than 70 value-added DVDs. These collections and box sets meet the expectations and match the interests of different audiences. The most remarkable element of the 2006-2007 crop is of course the 7-disc McLaren box set, containing his complete, restored and remastered works, fifteen thematic documentaries and dozens of unfinished and unreleased films.

The Filmmaker-in-Residence project was launched in 2006. It is an unprecedented partnership between the NFB and St. Michael’s Hospital, Toronto and has already produced concrete results.

What happens when citizens take control of filmmaking to tell their own stories? Thirty years after the Challenge for Change/Société nouvelle program that inspired it, and fuelled by the digital revolution, a unique collaboration between the two main partners gives filmmaker Katerina Cizek the chance to team up with frontline health care workers and their patients to create audiovisual works that become the agents of social change.

So far, she has made two films. The first, The Bicycle, accompanies the St. Michael’s doctors who began the Dignitas International project in Malawi. Here, she films the community worker Pax Chingawale as he fights AIDS at the grassroots. To make the second, The Interventionists: Chronicles of a Mental Health Crisis Team, Cizek spent dozens of hours with a special team comprising a nurse and a Toronto police officer who respond to emergency calls from people in psychiatric or emotional crisis. The film premiered on CBC television in March.

Filmmaker in Residence also generated the project I was here: seven young women, either pregnant or young mothers and who have all lived on the street, use digital cameras and a personal photo blog to document their everyday lives in Toronto. The remarkable results were turned into a photo exhibition launched in the Toronto town hall in the presence of the mayor.

To watch the films, follow the project’s evolution and find out how to participate, visit the Filmmaker-in-Residence site at <www.nfb.ca/filmmakerinresidence>.
Over the years, the NFB has continued to increase its international partnerships. In 2006-2007, it also extended their scope.

The NFB open to the world: films and more

Five works produced by the NFB this year include one or more public or private foreign producers. These fruitful relationships have sparked films like Killer’s Paradise by Giselle Portenier. Co-produced by the NFB and BBC Productions, this film attests to the difficult work carried out by human rights groups in Guatemala, where more than 2000 women have been murdered (the perpetrators unpunished) since 1999. Pooling their resources, the NFB, Glacialis Productions inc. and Gedeon Programmes enabled La planète blanche to be made. This film by Thierry Ragobert and Thierry Piantanida gives the audience a front-row view of the extraordinary beauty of the Arctic.

The agreement between the Film Board and the Brazilian Ministry of Culture and Audiovisual Secretariat attests to the potential of cooperation agreements between institutions that share the same aims. This year, representatives of the signatories met in Canada at the Toronto International Film Festival. A first documentary, co-produced by the NFB, the Brazilian company GrifaMixer and Discovery Canada, is underway. Furthermore, following a call for tenders launched by the development fund created by the parties, four co-productions have been chosen and are benefiting from script development help. Finally, under the agreement’s rubric “technical development and training,” two young Brazilian animators came to participate in Hothouse 4, 2007, mentored this year by the director of The Danish Poet, Torill Kove. In the same spirit, the NFB also this year signed a cooperation agreement with the Singapore Media Development Authority and the Singapore Film Commission, covering co-production, training and technical development. Other partnerships have led to the production and launch of some avant-garde films, which will be discussed elsewhere in this Report.

Finally, the NFB was a major participant at the UN-Habitat World Urban Forum, which Canada hosted in June 2006. Thirty years after playing an equally important role at the first Forum in 1976, this time its activities, steered by the English Program, covered seven areas including: production of a public interest message (a 30-second animation film picked up by broadcasters all over the world); a networking session on Aboriginal filmmaking, given by Wapikoni Mobile; Cinéurbana programming; daily liaison throughout the forum between CitizenShift and the forum participants; and the signing of a memorandum of understanding on future partnerships between the NFB and UN-Habitat.

The National Film Board attaches great importance to emerging filmmakers or those who are ethnoculturally, linguistically or physiologically different, and has increased the number of projects where they can bring forth their vision of the world.

This year such filmmakers were numerous and offered some remarkable works. New talent, for example, won fame with films like Symphonie Locass by Martine Asselin and Marco Dubé, in which young classical musicians throw themselves into somewhat more contemporary sounds, or Cottonland by Nance Ackerman, which analyzes a drug addiction that ravages an economically depressed community. Cottonland won several major awards at the Atlantic Film Festival last September. The IPOLC program also encouraged young filmmakers from official language minority communities, like the Manitoban Laurence Véron, who made Un bon gars, or the French-Ontarian Claude Guilmain, author of a first short film entitled Portrait of a Perfect Stranger, a moving story of the difficult life of a brother who died an untimely death.
Many training and guidance projects designed for Aboriginal communities across the country give rise year after year to a rich and distinct cinematography. The first shorts by four young filmmakers are on the DVD First Stories – Volume 1 (Ervin Chartrand, Shannon Legendre, Darryl Nepinak and Lorne Olson) and were noticed by juries at the Yorktown Festival. Also the subject of jury attention were the films by participants in the third season of Wapikoni Mobile (see Social Impact), which were viewed in their communities, in various towns across Quebec, in France and by Internet surfers everywhere.

Beyond tolerance, the way to be truly open to those who are different is to understand the specific situations experienced by the disabled. Two films illustrate this: Citizen Sam by Joe Moulins films the quadriplegic Vancouver councillor on his mayoral campaign; and Shameless: the ART of Disability by Bonnie Sherr Klein, a documentary feature that marks Klein’s return after a stroke. Both films attest not only to the hurdles people with a handicap must surmount, but also to the profound contribution they can make when given the means.

minorities: the NFB’s open doors

NFB programs also help immigrant filmmakers get to know and to understand Canadian society. The Egyptian-born ethnologist Fadel Saleh, who has lived in Ontario for over 20 years, made Rituel d’hommes, about his brother-in-law’s hunting trip in the north of the province. In Race Is a Four-Letter Word, Sobaz Benjamin records the reflections and questions of people whose roots are in different continents, so that we are forced to reconsider our definitions of racial origin.

To help promising young talents gain a foothold, in 2006 the NFB, in partnership with CBC Newsworld, launched the fifth edition of its Reel Diversity contest, which gave us Zarqua Nawaz (to whom we owe Me and the Mosque and the very successful TV series Little Mosque on the Prairie) and Elizabeth St. Philip (Breakin’ In: The Making of a Hip Hop Dancer). This year, 146 aspiring directors submitted proposals, 15 of which were chosen. The filmmakers were twinned with NFB producers who guided them as they developed their idea. Seven of these directors got to the stage of working with renowned documentary filmmakers such as Hubert Davis and Jennifer Baichwal, and three of their projects will premiere on CBC Newsworld’s The Lens.

With its staff, materials and desire to contribute to Canadian film culture, the NFB is able to offer a wide range of training programs aimed at new filmmakers, but also applicable to anyone wishing to build on their existing skills.

This year has seen 15 programs give young filmmakers all over the country the means to work on a film and see it to completion. Heading these projects are Aide au cinéma indépendant – Canada and the Filmmaker Assistance Program, which both supported over 200 independent projects this year, and Cinéaste recherché(e), open to emerging francophone animators and this year in its 18th edition. The NFB also encourages emerging filmmakers by awarding various prizes, some including a grant, at different film festivals for example in Vancouver, Winnipeg, Ottawa and Rimouski.

Various partners are associated with the training programs. In the Atlantic provinces there are AnimAcadie (NFB, Connections Productions, the French-language television service of CBC Atlantic and Film New Brunswick), open to script writers, and Inspired (NFB, CTV, IFC Canada and the Atlantic Film Festival), offering training and production services to emerging documentary filmmakers and following a model similar to that of Ontario’s NFB-TVO Documentary Calling Card. The success of First Stories in the Western provinces and of Quebec’s Wapikoni Mobile (with Manon Barbeau’s Productions les beaux jours) fuelled the creation of Yukon Vérité, an NFB/Yukon Film Society mentoring program, as well as the brand new Nunavut Animation Lab, which has six other partners as well as the NFB. Another first this year is Open I, an NFB digital video mentoring program for young people with a handicap to tell their stories. It is run by disabled filmmakers from the AccessNFB project, instructors from the Pacific Cinematheque and youth counsellors.

To create fruitful links with education, the NFB signed partnership agreements in June with UQÀM’s École des médias de la Faculté de communication and the Institut national de l’image et du son (INIS). Now, students from both institutions can access the NFB’s cutting-edge technologies at its Montreal offices. The agreement includes a provision whereby the NFB, INIS and UQÀM will examine the possibility of the NFB offering skills upgrade programs such as master classes for INIS students or postproduction courses for UQÀM students.

These programs join a roster of master classes some of which, like those at the CineRobotheque and the Médiathèque, are open to the general public, while others constitute professional training aimed at film artisans. Finally, to stay in step with a constantly evolving world, the NFB’s English and French Program producers have also benefited from workshops and conferences to round out their skills.
The NFB’s commitment to producing and distributing innovative content for new platforms this year confirmed its ability to stimulate creators from here and make Canada an international leader in the field.

New platforms: NFB at the vanguard

Unanimously praised when it premiered at MIPCOM 2006, the sparkling anthology of ten two-minute films Shorts in Motion – The Art of Seduction was presented by CHUM Television’s Bravo!Fact CHUM Television, co-produced by the NFB and marblemedia and launched online in Canada in October. The filmmakers were well-known personalities and artists. Each work was self-contained, and the avant-garde nature of the project won it the Best Made for Mobile Video Service award from the prestigious Groupe Speciale Mobile Association.

At the international level, a select group of institutional producers of multi-platform works, including the NFB, also benefit from these industry occasions to announce their projects. So it was at MIPCOM too that the NFB gave an advance screening of two shorts from the Confession series, co-produced with Film Australia, telling intimate stories of secrets, lies, mysteries and revelations. The Film Board has ensured that these new platforms are also used to screen socially relevant content. This effort has resulted in Connected, a series of eight 60-second films without words designed for cellphones and portable digital players, the aim of which is to sensitize school children about the ethical questions raised by modern science. The results of a joint effort by the members of the World Educational Consortium, including Discovery Channel, NHK and Film Australia, the films were made using these organizations’ spectacular stockshots.

PROMOTING INNOVATIVE CONTENT

Desirous of expanding the pool of creators able to meet the challenges of producing interactive and innovative content and applications for mobile and broadband technology, the NFB in 2006 agreed to sponsor an aspect of the Content 360 competition entitled “socially engaged innovative content.” This was the first time the competition was organized as part of MIPTV. After the deliberations of the international jury chaired by the Director General of the English Program, the Australian David Gurney was offered a co-production agreement for an animation film for new platforms about street art and its young creators. The success of this project led the NFB to commit to the 2007 edition of the competition, the winners of which were named at MIPTV in Cannes in April.

In the same spirit, in February this year the Film Board launched the NFB Cross-Media Challenge, open to Canadian producers only. The projects are directly inspired by Challenge for Change/Société nouvelle and to be eligible must be based on multi-platform concepts and engage the user via an innovative use of the networks and digital tools. The winning project, which will benefit from a development agreement with the NFB, will be unveiled at the Banff World Television Festival in June 2007.
In 2006-2007 Marketing and Communications took a new approach, which improved and enriched NFB relationships with its various partners, to the benefit of Canadians and audiences throughout the world.

The potential of this approach is illustrated by the remarkable success of the many events organized for the McLaren Year in Canada and elsewhere. Because of its excellent relations with the Cannes Film Festival, the Film Board was able to kick off these celebrations in May, with the screening of 13 remastered McLaren films as part of Cannes Classics – the first time it admitted animation film. The celebrated animator’s entire work premiered in Montreal at the Festival du nouveau cinéma, then internationally at the Pompidou Centre in Paris. In the French capital alone, over 2,500 people attended the screenings and took part in the workshops organized over the event’s three weeks. Benefiting from the cooperation of Canadian embassies and cultural centres all over Europe and welcomed by the cultural institutions of the host towns, the McLaren tour then visited London, Boulogne, Milan, Turin, Rome, Brussels and Berlin, giving rise to special events and impressive media coverage. While Canadians were seeing the works for the first time or anew, the Americans were welcoming them with enthusiasm from New York to Los Angeles via Washington, Chicago and Denver – where the Mediatheque specialists gave introductory workshops to children. By the time the tour ended, thousands of people had seen screenings or participated in workshops on the various aspects of the great filmmaker’s work. To date, over 5,322 copies of the box set Norman McLaren – The Master’s Edition have been sold in Canada and throughout the world by the NFB and other distributors.

The links forged with officials from the Rendez-vous de la Francophonie (March 9 to 25) are also emblematic of our new partnerships. Thanks to the Interdepartmental Partnership with the Official-Language Communities (IPOLC), the NFB was able to bring the Fédération des communautés francophones et acadiennes du Canada closer to the organizers of the Rendez-vous. This allowed NFB films to reach out to francophones in 34 Canadian towns, from Dawson (Yukon) to Labrador City (Newfoundland), via Ponteix (Saskatchewan), Cornwall (Ontario), Iqaluit (Nunavut), Saint-Quentin (New Brunswick) and Charlottetown (Prince Edward Island). Based on the organizers’ chosen theme – recognition of the Aboriginal contribution to filmmaking – the project officials at the NFB devised four tailor-made programs, one of them devoted to the most recent film by Alanis Obomsawin, Waban-Aki: People from Where the Sun Rises, which delighted audiences at the 87 screenings and got them thinking about questions of identity.

The Canadian Memory Fund has funded a new NFB site that introduces animation to children aged five to eight. Developed with the help of an interactive writer, Animacat’s House was devised in partnership with teachers, staff at the Mediatheque and CineRobotheque and the Groupe de recherche sur les jeunes et les médias at Université de Montréal, who validated the site architecture and design.
The Toronto Mediatheque and Montreal CineRobotheque together welcomed over 210,000 visitors this year and also organized and participated in many extra-mural activities.

Toronto’s Mediatheque surpassed its objectives and welcomed 105,110 visitors. With its reputation for children’s workshops it became a partner of the Canadian Opera Company as part of the project Animate the Opera. This was a video compilation of the productions of over 150 Toronto region students and teachers, presented at the opening evening of the Four Seasons Centre for the Performing Arts in front of more than 1,000 people. The Mediatheque’s partnerships with the Historica Foundation, the national video competition Racism. Stop it! and the Viewfinder’s International Youth Film Festival also allowed it to give a series of children’s and youth workshops all over the country and even in Denver, U.S., on the occasion of the McLaren film screenings at the Starz Denver Film Festival.

In Montreal, 106,369 people visited the CineRobotheque, which confirmed its dynamic role at the heart of cultural life by its close association with large scale events such as the first World Out Games, the Fête des enfants and the Montreal Highlights Festival. Among the 378 new titles in its collection (now over 9,000 strong), The Danish Poet was by far the most popular, with 1,587 individual screenings. Weekend workshops and screenings for the celebrations of the animation studios’ 65th birthday were all sold out. Staff added four new film workshops to the existing program, which attracted a record 22,326 participants.

Other school-related projects also involved a network of partners: following the success of the Weight of the World Challenge (see Social Impact) and in partnership with CBC Montreal and Jewish Family Services, the NFB launched a new pilot project entitled Stand by Me, about violence and intimidation at school. Classes of around 800 primary and secondary students in six schools watched such films as Glasses by Brian Duchsherer and Bully Dance by Janet Perlman, after which, using the NFB’s guides, teachers initiated discussions around the problem. This all took place within the wider context of CBC Montreal’s Montreal Matters, which brought together various stakeholders, this year around the theme of school.

In the same vein, the NFB has entered into a partnership with the City of Montreal to work simultaneously with all the Maisons de la culture on the island, instead of having to make individual agreements with each of them. This new approach also encourages discussion among the Maisons themselves. A partnership with YWCA Canada enabled the NFB collection to be promoted within all the member organizations: twelve of them held public and private screenings of NFB films on the occasion of the YWCA's Week Without Violence, which is held in October each year to prevent violence to women. The NFB also continued working with its 49 partner libraries, which host monthly screenings organized under the aegis of the NFB Film Club.

This brief overview should not omit mentioning the partnership agreement between the NFB and the Cannes Film Festival, governing the NFB’s presence at Short Film Corner in Cannes. This was the second year that the Film Board awarded the winner of the short film Palme d’Or the Norman McLaren Prize, which is endowed with a grant and an option of international distribution or co-production of the artist’s next work. For its part, the 2006 Cannes Online Competition screened ten shorts from six countries, selected from almost 900 films entered at Short Film Corner. The film B Is for Bomb by the South African documentary filmmaker Carey McKenzie won the audience vote. During the competition, there were almost 44,000 screenings.

In 2006-2007 the NFB’s revenues were $6.6 million and its distribution activities raised $1.18 million for its partners.

NFB film sales on screens at home and abroad

The sustained efforts of the sales team in the Canadian institutional market produced excellent results, with sales of $1.832 million, surpassing forecasts and far surpassing previous years’ average. The Canadian home video market has had a very good year, mainly due to the increased availability of NFB films on DVD and targeted promotional campaigns, which generated revenue of $686,000. The European home video market experienced similar success with sales totalling $154,717, double last year’s.

All over North America, TV markets have been turbulent and made uncertain by the arrival of high-definition technology and constant audience fragmentation. This has affected revenue in Canada ($723,000, i.e. 10% down from 2005-2006) as well as in the U.S. and Latin American markets ($489,000, down by 33%). The reduction in the numbers of full-length and medium-length feature films in 2006-2007 further explains the decrease of income. It should be noted, however, that in 2006-2007, 6,781,000 viewers saw NFB films on television, an increase of 14% over the previous year. This year, the NFB acquired new software to assess the increasing audiences for specialized channels. As for theatrical sales results, they have generally been lower than last year, which was in many other respects exceptional.

Stockshot sales income amounts to $515,605, down by 24% compared with last year. As in the past, this revenue is mainly from Canada (89%), where events like the conflict between the Canadian Film and Television Production Association (CFTPA) and the Alliance of Canadian Cinema, Television and Radio Artists (ACTRA) as well as the crisis at the Canadian Television Fund in the fall made many producers wary: some scaled back their production budgets, while others simply put back their projects to a later date.
This year again visits to the NFB Internet site increased spectacularly: with 3,693,571 individual hits, the number of visitors is up by nearly 30%, while user sessions are up by more than 25%, making a total of 42,522,550 pages displayed, i.e. more than 6,000,000 up from the preceding year.

Apart from the site’s intrinsic qualities, the constant renewal of its content has had something to do with these results. Many Web productions have been put online to accompany a film, e.g. Shameless: The Art of Disability by Bonnie Sherr Klein (on the occasion of the International Day of Disabled Persons), The Dark Side of the White Lady by Patricio Henriquez, or the release of the DVD of The Peacekeepers Special Edition, giving detailed information on the film and its subject matter so that viewers can organize screenings. Some of these microsites reflect the activities of NFB studios throughout Canada. Such is the case with Our World, which reports on an initiation project for the use of Aboriginal languages, intended for children in remote Aboriginal communities. It was set up by the Pacific and Yukon Centre. In total, 30 new microsites and Web productions were added to the NFB site during the year 2006-2007.

The Canadian Memory Fund has – among other things – provided for two major projects: One is Focus on Animation, which from a single page provides access to an impressive amount of content and resources, including 70 films that can be viewed free online. Intended to publicize the site, the Make the Pixels Dance! contest, organized with a roster of private-sector partners and aimed at children and teenagers, stimulated more than 20,000 film screenings in 15 days. The other project is Aboriginal Perspectives, which this year made available 67 films, including 18 with descriptive audio and 28 with subtitles for the hard of hearing. Also thanks to the Memory Fund, 70 films (35 in English, 35 in French) were added to the catalogue of the NFB’s online film library, CineRoute, bringing the total to 670 films. Subscribers have viewed 26,447 films over the last 12 months (a 20% increase over 2005-2006), thereby confirming that these additions were well chosen.

Other innovative elements have been added to the CitizenShift/Parole citoyenne sites, both of which have continued to draw people from all over the country, electronically and in person. Parole citoyenne, which celebrated its third birthday, put 29 new dossiers online on topics as diverse as the work of informal caregivers, the diversion of the Rupert River and the Bolivar revolution. Their presenters have organized events such as the evening entitled “La tête de l’emploi sur le racisme en milieu de travail,” organized in partnership with the Institut du Nouveau Monde, and the event “Un proNÉTaire ça mange quoi en hiver?” at the Société des arts technologiques. CitizenShift offers no fewer than 50 different dossiers online and its organizers have attached particular importance to links between online activities and community activities: For World Day for Water, they put together a pan-Canadian tour of screenings and debates in 10 towns and cities and presented live Webcasts from World Urban Forum 3, which took place in Vancouver last June.
At the NFB, as in the industry as a whole, entering the digital age demands major adjustments and concerted efforts from a range of stakeholders.

New technologies involve important but beneficial transformations of work methods. This year again, Technical Innovation and Resources carried out a rigorous analysis of available technologies before modifying its processes, acquiring new tools and concentrating on infrastructures that offer unprecedented potential, allowing both production and distribution at the NFB to benefit from the opportunities offered by the new multi-platform context.

In 2006-2007 the environments devoted to sound editing and re-recording changed: no longer linear, the new methods make it possible to transfer sound editing data from the various production centres to the machine room equipment and re-recording studios in Montreal. As for pictures, in a context distinguished by differentiation of equipment used in the industry, the NFB now has three editing systems: to optimize their use, specialists are working on technology based on a server able to process data requests from all three systems. Where shooting is concerned, branch staff along with the Animation Studio and in partnership with the Ontario-based DALSA Corporation have experimented with a high-resolution digital camera.

Projects like the 35 mm restoration of 13 Norman McLaren masterpieces and the DVD launch of his entire work, or the 24 idées/seconde project (a weekly summer series on TV5, which introduced the NFB’s animation studios to tens of thousands of viewers) each illustrate how the marriage of digital and conventional technologies can produce new products and restore our heritage. Also, in response to growing demand, the digital vault has intensified its activities: 83,000 DVD copies were produced in 2006-2007, of which 24,000 – an astronomical figure! – in the last quarter alone.

Moving to digital involves other players: throughout the year Human Resources has, among other things, negotiated and signed agreements for the acquisition of digital rights and free commercial digital distribution with various unions (ACTRA, SARTEC and UDA). This means the NFB can pursue Memory Fund projects and that Distribution can add the possibility of digital distribution to its sales negotiations. For its part, Business Affairs and Legal Services, which handled rights clearance for the Norman McLaren films, has developed new business models to distribute films in the multi-platform universe and trained English and French Program producers to use them. Finally, Administration, which is in charge of an Operations Continuity Plan to update the financial systems and implementing electronic document management, also worked with the Web teams to improve digitization, from the project manager’s initial request to going online. This branch also helped manage the ever-increasing traffic on the NFB Internet site.
The NFB is changing

Like all organizations, the NFB is constantly changing, in quest of a perfect match of needs with the possibilities of its environment. Among all the modifications made in the various branches, two restructurings will have particular impact on the organization’s activities.

The French Program successfully carried out a major overhaul and its organizational structure was adapted to more closely reflect its responsibilities. Its activities are now distributed among the three main production sectors, each the responsibility of an executive producer: Quebec, Regions (Acadia Studios and Ontario and West) and Animation. This particularly strengthened francophone programming outside Quebec. Responsibilities have been shared in order to develop and share expertise: For example, the position of producer, multi-platform, was created to make the most of the opportunities offered by this emerging domain. It is worth noting that five of the six new positions created in this consolidated structure were filled internally.

The 2006-2007 year was also characterized by the consolidation of marketing and communications activities in one single branch, Marketing and Communications, and by the introduction of a new management structure. The integration of these two branches entailed a major reorganization and new work processes were set up. These changes have allowed the NFB to greatly improve its ability to reach audiences and to do so more coherently. It has equipped itself in order to consolidate its presence in several key sectors of society, thus drawing closer to the visibility objectives set in the 2002-2006 Strategic Plan. There have also been improvements to agreements made with various institutional partners, so that it is now easier to include different products and activities. Finally, Distribution, Administration and Technical Resources pooled their talents to completely overhaul the NFB i-Store so the NFB collection is now just a few clicks away!

Awards – a fruitful year

2006-2007 was a rich year for the NFB: Of the films and Web sites we produced and co-produced, 80 charmed juries and audiences in Canada and abroad, garnering 152 awards and mentions.

In this year celebrating the 65th anniversary of the animation studios, their vitality was proven by a particularly good crop of prizes. Torill Kove’s The Danish Poet alone received 14, including the Oscar®, which propelled the film on to screens worldwide, as well as three awards at the Aspen Shortfest, the Prize 2: Onda Curta at the International Animated Film Festival at Espinho, Portugal (jointly with another NFB film, Theodore Ushev’s The Man Who Waited) and the Genie for best animated film, awarded in Toronto a few weeks earlier.
Regina Pessoa’s Tragic Story with Happy Ending continued to garner awards – in Spain, the Czech Republic and South Korea as well as at the prestigious Annecy International Animation Film Festival in France, where it received Le Cristal Annecy and TPS Cinéculte. Unusually, two of the eight awards bestowed on Jeu by Georges Schwizgebel were awarded jointly with another NFB film, sharing the Special International Jury Prize at the Hiroshima International Animation Festival with Tragic Story with Happy Ending in August, then in November, the Golden Dove at the Leipzig International Festival for Documentary and Animated Film with Conte de quartier by Florence Miailhe. The latter also won a special mention in competition at Cannes for its originality and artistic qualities.

Young Aboriginal filmmaking made a splash at the Yorkton Short Film & Video Festival, where the four films from the First Stories Program were honoured with a Golden Sheaf. Ervin Chartrand’s Patrick Ross also received the Reelworld Award for Outstanding Canadian Short Film at the Reelworld Film Festival in Toronto. A few months later, Here and There by Obom (Diane Obomsawin) won the Best Narrative Short Film Award at the Ottawa International Animation Festival.

Juries from here and elsewhere have acknowledged the exceptional works of our documentary filmmakers, who have cast a fresh look at familiar or new realities. Serge Giguère’s Driven by Dreams received the Jutra for Best Documentary, and Nance Ackerman’s Cottonland scooped up three awards at the Atlantic Film Festival, including the Ed Higginson Award for Best Cinematography (Alain Dupras). Barely had it emerged from editing when Jennifer Baichwal’s Manufactured Landscapes obtained the Toronto City Award for Best Canadian Feature Film, given as part of the Toronto International Film Festival, and a few months later it won the Genie for Best Documentary.

In February, the prestigious Groupe Spéciale Mobile Association (GSMA) awarded the Best Made for Mobile Video Service prize to a remarkable avant-garde work completed by the NFB and co-producers BravoFACT!/CHUM Television and marblemedia. The prize went to Shorts in Motion: the Art of Seduction, a series of two-minute microfilms for mobile screens. Finally, the hard work and devotion of the CitizenShift team earned it the 2006 Sony Award from the Association for Media and Technology in Education in Canada in acknowledgment of the team’s use of educational media aimed at primary, secondary and older students.

Original French documentaries produced by the NFB (French Program/Animation and Youth Studio) in partnership with TV5 Quebec Canada

Presented by actor Patrice Dubois, this 10-film series invites us into the NFB’s animation studios and explores the main animation techniques.

2D computer animation 01.
2D computer animation has revolutionized the art of animated drawings. The NFB’s Nicolas Brault, nimbly handling a lightweight machine called a graphics tablet, presents his work. Includes Îlot/Islet and Krach.

3D computer animation 02.
This film takes us on a guided tour of 3D animation with Michel Murray, a filmmaker and director of the Montreal school ICARI. He shows the workings of this cutting-edge technique. Includes Operation Cuckoo.
Caméraless animation 03.
Meet filmmaker Pierre Hébert, the Government of Quebec’s Albert-Tessier prize winner in 2004. This NFB veteran specializes in cameraless animation, scratching directly on film in the manner of Norman McLaren. Includes Begone Dull Care/Caprice en couleurs.

Drawing on acetate 04.
Tali creates highly coloured animations on acetates and depicts our failings with scathing humour! However, the technique’s salad days are over, as it is increasingly being replaced by the computer. Includes La piroquette/Piroquette.

Painting on glass 05.
Martine Chartrand, Golden Bear award winner at the Berlin International Film Festival (2000) for her animated short Âme noire/Black Soul, reveals the secrets behind her methods. Includes Âme noire/Black Soul.

Pinscreen 06.
Jacques Drouin uses one of the rarest instruments in animation cinema, the pinscreen. Invented in the 1930s, this is a rectangular white screen pierced by almost 250,000 pins. Includes Empreintes/Imprints and Trois exercices sur l’écran d’épingles d’Alexeieff.

Pixillation and rotoscoping 07.
Alongside the director Luc Chamberland, we discover two techniques based on live action: pixillation and rotoscoping. Includes When the Day Breaks.

Puppet animation 08.
Patrick Bouchard is the only animator to have won two Jutras. His specialty is puppet animation and here he takes us to the shooting stage of Subservience, his next film. Includes The Brainwashers/Les ramoneurs cérébraux.

Traditional drawing 09.
Two NFB animators, Claude Cloutier and Michèle Cournoyer, prove that pencil, brush and paper are sufficient to create hard-hitting, passionate work. Includes Du big bang à mardi matin/From the Big Bang to Tuesday Morning and Accordéon/Accordion.

Under camera animation 10.
Sand, modelling clay: just some of the materials that can be manipulated under the camera to make an animated film. The director Shira Avni filmed John and Michael at the NFB, using clay on an illuminated surface. Includes Through my Thick Glasses.

À FORCE DE RÊVES
85:00 video
D. Serge Giguère
P. Nicole Hubert, Sylvie Van Brabant (Les Productions du Rapide-Blanc), Colette Loumède (NFB)
Original French documentary produced by Les Productions du Rapide-Blanc in co-production with the NFB (French Program/Documentary Studio A)
They are between 72 and 94 years old. They play instruments, paint, make model airplanes, work the land, or take pleasure in antiques. Even approaching death cannot alter the warmth and joy of living in this film that reveals the subtle and precious lessons that unpretentious wisdom has to offer.

LE BLUES DE L’ORIENT
84:43 video
D. Florence Strauss
P. Serge Lalou (Les Films d’Ici), Amit Breuer (Amythos Films Inc.), François Duplat (Bel Air Media), Colette Loumède (NFB)
Original French documentary produced by Les Films d’Ici, Amythos Films Inc. and Bel Air Media in co-production with the NFB (French Program/Documentary Studio A)
Starting from Paris, filmmaker Florence Strauss goes in search of the roots of classical Arab music, while uncovering a partially hidden aspect of her own heritage. From this double quest emerges a road movie paying tribute to the musicians and poets who, through their art, embody and keep alive part of Middle Eastern history.

BECOMING 13
47:29 video
D. Victoria King
P. Geeta Sondhi, Victoria King (Girl Culture Productions Inc.), Annette Clarke (NFB)
Original English documentary produced by Girl Culture Productions Inc. in co-production with NFB (English Program/Atlantic Centre)
Is there a more mysterious landscape than girlhood? This documentary follows three 12-year-olds on their bumpy journeys into the future. Over the course of a year the filmmaker is a welcome but discreet presence in their lives, revealing the complexity of being 12 and inviting us to ask, What happens next?

BETWEEN THE LAUGHTER
(REEL DIVERSITY)
Reel Diversity is an NFB initiative for emerging filmmakers of colour conducted in partnership with CBC and CBC Newsworld.
43:17 video
D. Barbara K. Lee
P. Selwyn Jacob
Original English documentary produced by NFB (English Program/Pacific & Yukon Centre)
Comedy is an unusual pursuit for someone who is hearing impaired – Stephen O’Keefe must work as hard on his pronunciation as he does on his material. Still, the lawyer-turned-comedian never shies away from a challenge.

BREAKING RANKS
55:30 video
D. Michelle Mason
P. Trish Dolman, Leah Mallen, (Screen Siren Pictures Inc.), Tracey Friesen (NFB)
Original English documentary produced by Screen Siren Pictures Inc. in co-production with NFB (English Program/Pacific & Yukon Centre)
This moving film addresses the plight of four U.S. soldiers seeking sanctuary in Canada as part of their resistance to the war in Iraq. With intimate access to four American military deserters, their lawyers and families, this film documents their experiences as they try to exercise their consciences amidst profound consequences.

CAUCHEMAR À L’ÉCOLE / NIGHTMARE AT SCHOOL
8:43 film, video
D. Catherine Arcand
P. Michèle Bélanger
Original multilingual animated short produced by the NFB (French Program/Animation and Youth Studio)
Will fear devour the child who’s lost all self-confidence? A weird journey into the guts of a school that’s suddenly become a storehouse of every fear. But thanks to friends, we get out of the nightmare alive.
Is it possible to shed light on the states of grace experienced by mystics and meditators? This documentary reveals the most recent discoveries of scientific research on this phenomenon in Canada and abroad, and shows Carmelite nuns and Buddhist monks who agree to undergo the experiment.

COTTONLAND

53:38 video
D. Nance Ackerman, Eddie Buchanan
P. Annette Clarke

English original documentary produced by NFB (English Program/Atlantic Centre)

When the last of Cape Breton’s coalmines shut down in the late 1990s, the community of Glace Bay fell into economic despair and social depression. This film describes the human cost and the lure of OxyContin, a prescription painkiller, while showing us the complex social nexus that contributes to such dependency.

DOMINOES / DOMINOS (SHOWPEACE SERIES)

10:07 video
D. Daniel Schorr
P. Marcy Page (NFB) in association with Justice Canada

Original animation short without words produced by NFB (English Program/Animation Studio)

Dominoes animates the tiles of this age-old game to illustrate an oddly shaped domino’s struggle to belong. Set to tunes inspired by Brazil’s chorinho music, the film gives a new spin to the old domino theory as the characters ultimately learn about openness, flexibility, cooperation... and sharing one’s dots.

DUHAMEL

46:00 video
D. Stéphan Gravel
P. Yves Fortin (Les Productions Thalie), Jacques Turgeon (NFB)

Original French documentary produced by Les Productions Thalie in co-production with the NFB (French Program/Quebec Regions Studio)

The film seamlessly blends action, emotion and reason as it spotlights the life, career and exploits of little-known Quebec motor racing champion Miguel Duhamel. Combining spectacular racing images and family footage, the director delivers a gripping portrait of an unusual man and casts an enlightened look at a fascinating sport.

EDGECODE SERIES

A compilation of the five winning films of an experimental film project featuring cutting-edge artists.
P. Svend-Erik Eriksen (NFB) with the participation of Cineworks Independent Filmmakers Society

Original English shorts produced by NFB (English Program/Prairie Centre)

I Thought of You Often
5:01 video
D. Yun Yam Li

Translated from a self-reflexive Chinese saying, this visual poem explores aging within a culture that is not one’s own.

Mechanical Animal Memory
5:34 video
D. Amanda Dawn Christie

Images from home movies that have been damaged slide around on the screen, revealing areas of film that are not normally projected (edge code, sprockets, and optical track).
FILMMAKER IN RESIDENCE
The NFB Filmmaker in Residence is an alternative model of media making inspired by NFB’s legendary Challenge for Change program. Katerina Cizek is filmmaker in residence at St. Michael’s Hospital, working with doctors, nurses, researchers and patients. From local projects at the Inner City Health Unit, to global ones, Filmmaker in Residence is partnering media with medicine in innovative ways.

FILMMAKER IN RESIDENCE trailer
1:45 video
D. Katerina Cizek
P. Gerry Flahive
Original English trailer produced by NFB (English Program/Ontario Centre)

The Bicycle: Fighting AIDS with Community Medicine
14:21 video
D. Katerina Cizek
P. Gerry Flahive
Original English documentary produced by NFB (English Program/Ontario Centre)

Pax Chingawale pedals his bicycle over 20 km a day, visiting his neighbours in southern Malawi. He bikes around in search of the abandoned and the ill while monitoring the progress of those whose lives are being saved by ARVs (Anti Retro-Virals), a life-extending drug treatment. Pax battles AIDS at the grassroots.

The Interventionists: Chronicles of a Mental Health Crisis Team
31:24 video
D. Katerina Cizek
P. Gerry Flahive
Original English documentary produced by NFB (English Program/Ontario Centre)

Ellen is a mental health nurse. Brandon is a police officer. Together, they ride the streets of the inner city in an unmarked police car, responding to 911 calls involving what are officially called “emotionally disturbed persons” (EDP). The team is a partnership between St. Michael’s Hospital and two downtown police divisions.

FINDING DAWN
73:29 video
D. Christine Welsh
P. Svend-Erik Eriksen
Original English documentary produced by NFB (English Program/Pacific & Yukon Centre)

Dawn Crey. Ramona Wilson. Daleen Kay Bosse. These are just three of the estimated 500 Aboriginal women who have gone missing or been murdered in Canada over the past thirty years. Finding Dawn puts a human face to this national tragedy and illustrates the deep historical, social and economic factors that contribute to the epidemic of violence against Native women in this country.

FIRST STORIES MANITOBA
First Stories is a training program for emerging Aboriginal filmmakers. In these short documentaries, four filmmakers explore the realities of their lives in 21st century Canada.

FIRST STORIES MANITOBA – NGANAWENDAAN NDE’ING (I KEEP THEM IN MY HEART)
5:06 video
D. Lorne Olson
Original English documentary

As a young boy, filmmaker Lorne Olson was told Indians were like apples, red on the outside, white on the inside. Ironically, it was that notion that set him off on a long journey to find out who he was. Throughout his life, he has identified himself as Métis, half-breed, Oji-Cree, Indian, Native, Aboriginal, and so on. We witness Lorne speeding through decades in search of his true identity.

My Indian Name
6:29 video
D. Darryl Nepinak
Original English documentary

Darryl Nepinak documents the journey of receiving his Indian name. What does it mean to get one’s name? How do others, who have already received their names, now see themselves? How do others see them? Through intimate interviews, Darryl finds some revealing answers.

Nganawendaanan Nde’ing (I keep them in my heart)
6:20 video
D. Shannon Letandre
Original English documentary

Shannon Letandre examines the importance of traditional knowledge and how it can be shared from generation to generation. Shannon, who lives in the city of Winnipeg, accompanies her grandfather as he picks and prepares weekay. She captures the dignity and grace of her grandfather as he passes on his knowledge.
Ervin Chartrand's subject is an ex-prison inmate, 29-year-old Patrick Ross. Ross was not an artist, nor a spiritual person, until he came to Manitoba's Stony Mountain Institution. There he started to paint. We watch Patrick create one of his extraordinary paintings while he shares his thoughts on his art, his jail time and his hopes for the future.

First Stories
First Stories is a training program for emerging Aboriginal filmmakers. In these short documentaries, four filmmakers explore the realities of their lives in 21st century Canada.

P. Joe MacDonald (English Program/Prairie Centre) with the participation of CBC Prairies, SCN, SaskFilm

Ati-Wicasin (It’s getting easier)
6:25 video
D. Tessa Desnomie
Tessa Desnomie celebrates the life and times of her grandmother, Jane Merasty. Born and raised on the trapline, this Woodlands Cree woman has witnessed significant changes throughout her 80 years.

Life Givers: Honouring our Elders and Children
5:17 video
D. Janine Windolph
“Some say when a child dies, you lose your future, and when an elder dies, you lose your past.” This poignant film testifies to the need to grieve and honour the memory of loved ones.

O Mother, Where Art Thou?
5:13 video
D. Paul Swiderski
Paul John Swiderski takes stock of his adoptive family and all that they’ve provided for him. The people who’ve raised him are his family, but when a cousin asks about his birth mother, Paul begins to wonder about his other family.

Power of a Horse
4:43 video
D. Cory Generoux
This is the moving account of filmmaker Cory Generoux dealing with the scars that racism left on his life, both as its recipient and perpetrator. This potent film reveals a simple and beautiful lesson that changed his life.

Flight from Darkness
51:21 HD video
D. Trevor Grant
P. Don Copeman, Lynne Beck Copeman (Eleventh Hour Picture), Joe MacDonald (NFB)
Original English documentary produced by Eleventh Hour Picture in co-production with NFB (English Program/Prairie Centre)
Percy Paul was born in a remote Dene community in Saskatchewan. He excelled in school and sports. Within a few short years, he was at Princeton, working alongside leading authorities on string theory, black holes and quantum field theory. At 28, however, Percy became an alcoholic and was diagnosed with bipolar disorder. This film focuses on his dazzling rise and fall as a brilliant mathematician to his continuing struggle to prevail over his illness.

P. Howie Shia (PPF House), Michael Fukushima (NFB) with Bravo!FACT and CHUM Limited
Original animation short without words produced by PPF House in co-production with NFB (English Program/Animation Studio)
A little creature watches the transformation of a feather and follows a whale to where icebergs melt, leaving birds with nowhere to land. This short reminds us of looking out a car window on a road trip and getting out at the petting zoo.

Meta Pre Ptolemy
2:21 video
D. Rachel Peters
Original animation without words
What if the laws of physics suddenly ceased to apply? Such is the question posed by filmmaker Rachel Peters in this whimsical tale of a man and his two goldfish, as they prepare for the end of the world.

A Prairie Story
1:33 video
D. Anne Koizumi
Original animation without words
Set to a pulsing techno beat, a prairie landscape undergoes a metamorphosis from rural idyll to over-urbanized dystopia. Director Anne Koizumi laments the changing face of her home town, Calgary, in this pointed critique of the bacteria-like spread of suburbia and exurbia.
Square Roots 2:56 video
D. Patrick Doyon
Original animation without words

A robot rambles about in a frantic state of preoccupation. He gets countless electronic messages through his antenna every second. He never slows down. The only thing that might bring his frenetic journey to an end is a traffic accident.

Swims 2:06 video
D. Kelly Sommerfeld
Original animation without words

A figure floats in landscapes and spaces without a ground plane. Where fields of hay, asphalt, dirt, or tile once were, there is only water. This animation explores experiences within environments that are recognizable but surreal.

Vimy-Ridge 2:50 video
D. Damien Hess
Original English animation

Damien Hess attempts to connect with the tragedy of the First World War, a conflict that helped define Canada. The film uses imagery of the haunting Canadian National Vimy Memorial monument in northern France to summon up names, faces and shadows that are fading from our collective memory.

HUMANIMA

P. Yves Lafontaine (Productions Nova Média inc.), Jacques Turgeon (NFB)

Original French documentaries produced by Productions Nova Média inc. in co-production with the NFB (French Program/Quebec Regions Studio)

A heart-warming documentary series that presents fascinating men and women who live close to animals and nature. Through the changing seasons, Humanima gives viewers an unrivalled opportunity to discover the profound relationship that can exist between humans and animals.

Episode 1: Fauconnier pour la vie
D. Robert Cornellier

Carl Millier has been a falconer for several years and shows us these magnificent birds.

Episode 2: Au rythme des grandes baleines
D. Simon C. Vaillancourt

In 1986, during medical training in the Gaspésie, Janie Giard discovered whales.

Episode 3: Un cri qui vient de loin
D. Jean-François Bouchard

As a young boy, Maryo Pépin conceived a passion for animals. Self-taught, he devotes his time to studying animal behaviour and imitating their cries.

Episode 4: Redonner des ailes
D. Jean-François Bouchard

Guy Fitzgerald dedicates his life to caring for and rehabilitating injured birds of prey, which he looks after at the Saint-Hyacinthe bird clinic.

Episode 5: L’homme et son paradis terrestre
D. Simon C. Vaillancourt

A keen environmentalist, Henri Jacob likes getting involved in concrete projects. Each summer since 1995 he’s been identifying and ringing hundreds of ducks at Lac Parent, in Abitibi.

Episode 6: Le juste retour
D. Simon C. Vaillancourt

On their farm in Carignan, Quebec, Gloria Grow and her husband, Richard Allan, shelter around 400 rejected or ill-treated animals.

Episode 7: Quand la caméra ne tourne pas
D. Robert Cornellier

Quiet on set! The dog Victor is ready. Next to the camera, his trainer Jean Cardinal!

Episode 8: Des prédateurs et des hommes
D. Jean Fontaine

Rolland Lemiex is a real child of nature. A specialist in humane trapping, he’s particularly interested in predators like the bear and the wolf.

Episode 9: À la saison des naissances
D. Jean Fontaine

Josée Tremblay could have looked after dogs and cats in a private veterinary practice, but her love of nature made her opt for the wild zoo in Saint-Félicien, Quebec.

Episode 10: La «Mère l’oie»
D. Simon C. Vaillancourt

For several years, Pascale Otis has been interested in how the greater snow goose and the Canada goose survive the cold. This biologist is fully prepared to become “mother goose” to answer all the questions her research throws up.

Episode 11: Un refuge, pour la vie
D. Simon C. Vaillancourt

Christian Huchédé has been a fervent defender of animals for 30 years and founded the Refuge de l’Arche, where he takes in abandoned or ill-treated animals.

Episode 12: Illusionniste de nature
D. Jean-François Bouchard

Pierre Leduc is both a biologist and a painter. His naturalist canvases show us the beauty and fragility of nature.

Episode 13: Les défis d’une âme sauvage
D. Simon C. Vaillancourt

In the Atlantic Ocean, 290 km from Halifax, lies wild Sable Island. For over 20 years, Zoe Lucas has been studying this world and its wild horses.

Personal Space 12:16 HD
D. Dylan Reibling
P. Gerry Flahive (English Program/Ontario Centre)

A dark alley on a rainy Thursday night, crouched up against a dumpster hiding from a bunch of strangers. This is the last place you'd expect to find a young business professional or urban hipster. A cross between tag and hide-and-seek, Manhunt is growing in popularity among young urbanites who are challenging conventional notions of public space.

Photography Lessons 12:02 HD
D. Kelly O'Brien
P. Gerry Flahive (English Program/Ontario Centre)

A Portuguese immigrant and his hot shot son are both professional photographers but their subjects are a study in contrast. José Pimentel does weddings, communions and passport photos. His son George chases celebrities at film festivals around the world, but he still enjoys working alongside José at the family photo studio.

The Arctic has always fascinated explorers, but its extraordinary beauty has never appeared as majestic and mysterious as in this documentary. However, the seemingly immutable kingdom of eternal ice is beginning to show worrying signs...

THE POINT 85:26 HD
D. Joshua Dorsey
P. Melissa Malkin, Joshua Dorsey (Silo Productions), Germaine Wong (NFB)

Original English drama produced by Silo Productions in co-production with NFB (English Program/Québec Centre)

Set in the multiracial inner-city neighbourhood of Point St. Charles and based on stories crafted from the real lives of its teenage collaborators, The Point is a raw, kid’s-eye view of the teen hangouts, homes and streets that unite and divide them. This fresh drama on teenage life on the wrong side of the tracks gives sound and vision to the voice of today's youth. Their stories, told in their own vernacular, reflect how they experience their world.

PORTRAIT D’UN PARFAIT INCONNU 20:39 video
D. Claude Guilmain
P. Claudette Jaiko

Original French documentary produced by the NFB (French Program/Ontario and West Studio)

Life kept them apart... until death. In this moving short film, the filmmaker goes off to meet a stranger: his brother, whom he finds on his death bed. Between archival images of a young, smiling André and the poetic account of his last moments, this bittersweet film captures the fragility of human life with its failures and triumphs.

PORTRAITS ON A BLUSTERY DAY: WORLD URBAN FORUM PSA 0:30 video
D. Howie Shia
P. Michael Fukushima

Original English animation short produced by NFB (English Program/Animation Studio)

This animated public service announcement was made on behalf of United Nations Human Settlements Programme (UN-Habitat) to promote the Third World Urban Forum, which took place in Vancouver in June 2006. Colour washes and line drawings, scored to a fusion samba rhythm, conjure up visual metaphors for activism in the quest for livable urban spaces around the world.

QALLUNAAT! WHY WHITE PEOPLE ARE FUNNY 52:02 HD video
D. Mark Sandiford
P. Mark Sandiford (Beachwalker Films Inc.), Kent Martin (NFB)

Original English documentary produced by Beachwalker Films Inc in co-production with NFB (English Program/Atlantic Centre)

What’s so funny about white people, otherwise known as qallunaat to the Inuit? Well, among other curious behaviours, qallunaat greet each other with inane salutations, repress natural bodily functions, complain about being cold and seem to want to dominate the world. The result of a collaboration between filmmaker Mark Sandiford and Inuit writer and satirist Zebedee Nungak, this is a fresh and long overdue “study” of white people, from the Inuit point of view.
RADIANT CITY

English experimental material co-produced by marblemedia and the NFB, Shorts in Motion: The Art of Seduction is a sizzling anthology of two-minute short films, created by a talented group of notable directors, prominent artists, and popular personalities across Canada. This collection about the art of seduction is clever, entertaining and touching.

120 Seconds to Be Elected
2:30 HD video
D. Denis Villeneuve
P. Colette Loumède (Documentary Studio A)
A young politician has 120 seconds to persuade his audience to vote for him. His speech rapidly becomes an improvisation as he tries his best to grasp the wishes of the crowd. Depending on their reactions, he modifies his ideas, changes his opinions and makes 180 degree turns in his promises: he’s desperate to net his audience with the bait he thinks they want to grab. A satirical parody of a man abandoning his vision of the world in order to win over the masses. Ideas are no longer an end but a means.

My Obscure Object of Desire
2:45 HD video
D. Ann Marie Fleming
P. Michael Fukushima (Animation Studio)
The heart will go to any lengths to become the object of its love’s desire. So it woos, coos and even “awoos.” But in the end not even the heart can always get what it wants. Without words

Multilingual DVD of the original English film Manufactured Landscapes, including the supplements: extra scenes, director’s commentary, slide show with commentary by Edward Burtynsky, discussions, interview with cinematographer, trailer and stills gallery.

Edward Burtynsky is famous for his large-scale photographs of nature transformed by industry. Manufactured Landscapes follows him to China as he captures the effects of the country’s massive industrial revolution.

MARIONNETTES EN VADROUILLE

53:42
Multilingual compilation comprising the animation films Ruzz et Ben, Félix Leclerc chante Cadet Rousselle, Juke-Bar and Le cyclope de la mer.

Embark on adventures with the mop puppets! Whether in town, on the high seas or in a snack bar, there’s always excitement!

MIKE BIRCH, LE COW-BOY DES MERS / MIKE BIRCH: RIDING WITH THE WIND

52:43
Multilingual DVD of the original French production Mike Birch, le cow-boy des mers, with the trailers for Les chemins de Marie and Country.

Mike Birch won a solo transatlantic race in 1978, and hasn’t stopped sailing and burnishing his legend since. This former cowboy, crazy about the ocean, has become a figurehead of yacht racing.

MON FILS SERA ARMÉNIEN

84:57
Original French production of Mon fils sera arménien, including the trailers for Le cabinet du docteur Ferron and Soraida, une femme de Palestine.

What does it mean to be Armenian? Mon fils sera arménien listens to six Canadians of Armenian origin as well as survivors of the 1915 genocide.
MON ONCLE ANTOINE
129:20
Multilingual compilation of the original French film Mon oncle Antoine (English subtitles), including the short film Il était une chaise (French subtitles).

Considered a chef-d’œuvre, Claude Jutra’s film transports us to a working-class village in 1940, preparing for Christmas. With a panoply of Quebec stars, including Jean Duceppe in the main role. Wonderful!

MY SON SHALL BE ARMENIAN
80:43
Compilation, in English, of the original French film Mon fils sera arménien, including images from the film and musical excerpts by Ararat Petrossian.

For the description, see Mon fils sera arménien, opposite.

NORMAN McLAREN – L’INTÉGRALE / NORMAN McLAREN – THE MASTER’S EDITION
875:25
Box set of 7 bilingual DVDs including 15 thematic documentaries, 58 remastered films, dozens of tests and unfinished films and an 88-page bilingual booklet.

At last, the works of the animation grand master united in one box set. From his first attempts in Scotland in 1933 to his last film made at the NFB in 1983, McLaren built a brilliant and unique film corpus.

LA PLANÈTE BLANCHE
130:09
DVD of the original French film La planète blanche, including a making-of, interviews with the directors and the film’s trailer.

The migratory paths of many species of animals cross at the Arctic, which is an apparently unchanging kingdom of ice; but now there are worrying signs of imbalance.

PORTRAIT D’UN PARFAIT INCONNU / PORTRAIT OF A PERFECT STRANGER
44:56
Multilingual DVD of an original French production, including the trailers for Printemps fragiles, Le méchant trip and À part des autres.

This tender and lyrical documentary traces the brief life of an alcoholic man struck by cancer just when he was overcoming his addiction. A stranger whom his brother gets to know just a little too late.

PRÉVENTION DES ABUS SEXUELS
215:00
Five discs in French, comprising the NFB titles: Les voleurs d’enfance/Thieves of innocence, Le chapeau/The Hat, Mon corps, c’est mon corps – le film pour adultes, Mon corps, c’est mon corps – le film pour enfants and Tout ira mieux!

This selection is intended for teachers and other professionals. It examines children’s aid systems and tools to help victims and prevent further abuse.

PRINTEMPS FRAGILES
114:30
DVD of the original French film Printemps fragiles, including an interview with Dr. Gilles Julien.

Despite their tough lives, the kids at the house founded by Dr. Gilles Julien are finding some kind of balance. This fragile independence gradually attained with the help of respectful and attentive volunteers is the proof of children’s ability to make a fresh start.

PRISONERS OF BECKETT
87:83
DVD, in English, of the original French film Les prisonniers de Beckett, including trailers for the films In the Name of the Mother and the Son and Who Shot my Brother?

After the successful production of Waiting for Godot inside the prison, a tour is organized outside and the prisoner-actors take the opportunity ... to escape. A true story – stranger than fiction.
SÉLECTION IDENTITÉ ACADIENNE
327:00
Collection of five discs in French, comprising these NFB titles: Tintamarre - La piste Acadie en Amérique, L'Acadie, l'Acadie?!?, Évangéline en quête, Kacho Kompolo and L’Éternité? ou la Disparition d’une culture.

Return to the origins of Acadia with Évangéline, attend the celebrations in Tintamarre, see the birth of the francophone university in New Brunswick in L’Acadie, l’Acadie?!?, discover underground culture in Moncton in Kacho Kompolo, and reflect on the fragility of a culture with Éternité? ou la Disparition d’une culture.

SHOWPEACE SERIES – DVD SET / SÉRIE ANIMAPAIX – ENSEMBLE DVD
55:09
Collection of six animation films without words comprising the NFB titles: Dinner for Two/ Dîner intime, When the Dust Settles/ Et la poussière retombe..., Bully Dance/ La danse des brutes, Elbow Room/ Distances, Tête à tête à tête and Dominos/Dominos.

The celebrated ShowPeace series for conflict resolution now includes six films. These animated shorts without words will appeal to everyone, from children to business executives. Viewers can gain valuable insight into dealing creatively with disputes and anger at school, at home and in the workplace.

SOCIAL STUDIES ESSENTIALS: GRADES 8 TO 12
196:05
Collection of five discs in English, comprising the NFB titles: A Love that Kills, XS Stress: Teens Take Control, Growing Up Canadian: Family, Growing Up Canadian: School and Two Worlds Colliding.

Today’s student, tomorrow’s citizen. In a complex, culturally diverse society, students need to understand vital issues. This collection brings diverse points of view to the classroom and encourages reflection on what it means to be Canadian.

RACISME ZÉRO
114:00
Five discs in French, comprising the following NFB titles: Âme noire/ Black Soul, Xénofolies, Vivre ensemble, Sigwan and Histoire tragique avec fin heureuse.

Living in a multiethnic society raises important questions of acceptance and tolerance. It’s not easy to combat prejudice and racism. The five films could be a starting point for positive discussions with young people.

REEMA, ALLERS-RETOURS
79:45
DVD of the original French production Reema, allers-retours, including the trailers for Les chemins de Marie, Zéro tolérance and Le voyage de Nadia.

Originally from Nova Scotia, a teenager makes contact with her Iraqi father and her sister who stayed with him. After several visits to her father she realizes that it’s easier to exchange letters and phone calls than affection and culture.

SOCIAL STUDIES ESSENTIALS: K TO 7
134:08
Collection of five discs in English, comprising the NFB titles: I can make art... like Ron Noganosh, My Brand New Life: Inuit Games, My Brand New Life: Wheelchair Challenge, Kids Talkin’ about Death and It’s a Girl’s World (includes the original film and the educational version).

LE SOUFFLE DU DÉSERT
107:16
DVD of the original French film Le souffle du désert, including the trailers for Tabac, la conspiration, Au nom de la mère et du fils and Bonne chance, as well as interviews with Guy Corneau and Alex Burger.

Thirteen strangers go to the Sahara for an adventure among men, talking and thinking about their identities. A lesson in courage and humility against a grandiose, wild backdrop.

A SPECIES’ ODYSSEE
91:48
Two discs in English, produced by Productions Pixcom and distributed by the NFB.

A Species’ Odyssey is a two-part series that describes the most extraordinary and improbable of adventures: the history of the human race... from the first primate to stand and walk seven million years ago to Homo sapiens in the modern era.
STORY OF A MEDIATION
57:36
DVD, in English, of the original French film Récit d’une médiation, including the trailers for Being Human, Neighbourhood Deliveries and Challenge in Old Crow.

Community mediation is becoming an alternative to the legal system for resolving conflicts. This film shows a session involving two neighbours who are no longer on speaking terms but who must settle a dispute, and the volunteer mediators willing to help them.

SYMPHONIE LOCASS
56:08
DVD of the original French film Symphonie Locass, including the trailers for 538 fois la vie, Histoire d’être humain and Symphonie Locass.

The conductor’s baton turns a symphony orchestra of young musicians into a hip hop band with the group Loco Locass. An uplifting experience for all participants.

TABAC, LA CONSPIRATION
97:35
DVD of the original French production Tabac, la conspiration, including the trailers for Qui a tiré sur mon frère?, Pas de pays sans paysans and Médecine sous influence.

A gripping investigation covering three continents, the film exposes the vast conspiracy of a criminally negligent industry that conquers new markets through corruption and manipulation.

THE TIES THAT BIND
94:37
Multilingual DVD of the original English film The Ties that Bind, with French subtitling option. Includes the documentary Beyond the Ties that Bind, extras (32 minutes), resource guide for families in English and French and director’s commentary.

Chris Jordan, 28, has multiple disabilities and still lives at home. His aging parents are building their son a long-term network of support to replace them when they die. This film reveals the complexity around one man’s transition toward a more independent life.

VIOLENCE FAITE AUX FEMMES
94:00
Collection of five discs, in French, comprising the NFB titles: Le chapeau/The Hat, Volcan - l’Autodéfense, Pour ne plus avoir peur, Un amour assassin and Au-delà du 6 décembre. Also includes the guide Choix pour des relations positives entre les jeunes.

Despite efforts to denounce and punish violence against women, the number of female victims of physical, sexual, verbal and psychological attacks is still increasing. A social reality that we need to face.

VIVRE SANS FUMÉE
74:48
Two discs, in French, comprising the NFB titles: Tabac, la conspiration, Il n’y a pas de fumée as well as the bilingual CD-ROM Trousse d’action : espaces sans fumée/ Smoke Free Spaces Activist Tool Kit produced by Health Canada.

In Canada, tobacco continues to kill. The new Canadian law forbidding smoking in public places hasn’t come a moment too soon. This selection highlights the tobacco industry’s lies and demonstrates a campaign to prevent tobacco use.

WAPOS BAY SERIES
120:00
Multilingual DVD of the original English series Wapos Bay, including both Cree and English versions.

Wapos Bay is a light-hearted stop-motion animation series about the adventures of three Cree children living in remote northern Saskatchewan. Each episode is 24 minutes long.

Wapos Bay: There’s no ‘I’ in Hockey
(Episode 1)
Talon and his cousin T-Bear’s relationship becomes strained when they both try to win the attention of Melanie. Meanwhile, Raven is determined to compete in the bannock competition.

Wapos Bay: Journey Through Fear
(Episode 2)
Raven, T-Bear and even Jacob learn about confronting fear one step at a time with support from family members and elders.

Wapos Bay: They Dance at Night
(Episode 3)
The children learn that a respectful spirituality must be observed daily to balance old ways with new.

Wapos Bay: Something to Remember
(Episode 4)
T-Bear and Raven explore the meaning of sacrifice and appreciation when the Wapos Bay community celebrates Remembrance Day.

Wapos Bay: A Time to Learn
(Episode 5)
The intense preparation for a trip to the trapline offers opportunities for Talon and his mushum (grandfather) to negotiate responsibilities with care.

Wapos Bay: The Elements
(Episode 6)
The community creates opportunities for young people to learn about and value their Aboriginal traditions, including finding ways to counter the pervasive influence of electronic technologies.

WAPOS BAY SERIES
105:00

Get on board the sailing ship Sedna IV with Captain Jean Lemire and explore the remote Cape Farewell in the treacherous North Atlantic Ocean. He and his crew are hoping to find whales.

ZÉRO TOLÉRANCE
82:16
DVD of the original French production Zéro tolérance, including the trailers for Qui a tiré sur mon frère?, Mon fils sera arménien, Marron, Au nom de la mère et du fils and Un quartier à livrer.

A punchy film that attacks the controversial practice of racial profiling and makes space for diverse points of view. On one side – young people; on the other – the police. A blend of cinéma vérité and personal testimonies.

ZERO TOLERANCE
79:99
DVD, in English, of the original French film Zéro tolérance, including trailers for In the Name of the Mother and the Son and Neighbourhood Deliveries.

See the description above.

Management responsibility

Responsibility for the integrity and objectivity of the accompanying financial statements for the year ended March 31, 2007 and all information contained in these statements rests with National Film Board's management. These financial statements have been prepared by management in accordance with Treasury Board accounting policies, which are consistent with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles for the public sector, and year-end instructions issued by the Office of the Comptroller General.

Management is responsible for the integrity and objectivity of the information in these financial statements. Some of the information in the financial statements is based on management's best estimates and judgment and gives due consideration to materiality. To fulfill its accounting and reporting responsibilities, management maintains a set of accounts that provides a centralized record of the department's financial transactions. Financial information submitted to the Public Accounts of Canada and included in the National Film Board's Departmental Performance Report is consistent with these financial statements.

Management maintains a system of financial management and internal control designed to provide reasonable assurance that financial information is reliable, that assets are safeguarded and that transactions are executed in accordance with prescribed regulations, within Parliamentary authorities, and are properly recorded to maintain accountability of Government funds. Management also seeks to ensure the objectivity and integrity of data in its financial statements by careful selection, training and development of qualified staff, by organizational arrangements that provide appropriate divisions of responsibility, and by communication programs aimed at ensuring that regulations, policies, standards and managerial authorities are understood throughout the Board.

The financial statements of the Board have been audited by the Auditor General of Canada.

AUDITOR'S REPORT

To the Minister of Canadian Heritage and Status of Women

I have audited the statement of financial position of the National Film Board as at March 31, 2007 and the statements of operations, equity of Canada and cash flow for the year then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Board’s management. My responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on my audit.

I conducted my audit in accordance with Canadian generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that I plan and perform an audit to obtain reasonable assurance whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation.

In my opinion, these financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Board as at March 31, 2007 and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the year then ended in accordance with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles.

Further, in my opinion, the transactions of the Board that have come to my notice during my audit of the financial statements have, in all significant respects, been in accordance with the National Film Act and the by-laws of the Board.

STATEMENT OF EQUITY OF CANADA
FOR THE YEAR ENDED MARCH 31

2007

Net cost of operations (67,772,722) (66,725,982)

Equity of Canada, end of year $ (1,196,774) $ (1,859,885)

The accompanying notes are an integral part of the financial statements.
1. AUTHORITY AND PURPOSES

The National Film Board was established in 1939 under the National Film Act, and is the agency responsible for administering the Act.

The National Film Board (Board) is a cultural agency named in Schedule 1.1 of the Financial Administration Act reporting to the Minister of Canadian Heritage and Status of Women. It is administered by a Board of Trustees appointed by the Governor in Council and chaired by the Government Film Commissioner.

The Board’s legislative mandate is to initiate and promote the production and distribution of films in the national interest and, in particular:

- to produce and distribute and to promote the production and distribution of films designed to interpret Canada to Canadians and to other nations;
- to represent the Government of Canada in its relations with persons engaged in commercial motion picture film activity in connection with motion picture films for the Government or any department thereof;
- to engage in research in film activity and to make available the results thereof to persons engaged in the production of films;
- to advise the Governor in Council in connection with film activities;
- to discharge such other duties relating to film activity as the Governor in Council may direct it to undertake.

2. SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

These financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Treasury Board accounting policies, which are consistent with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles for the public sector, and year-end instructions issued by the Office of the Comptroller General.

The most significant policies are as follows:

PARLIAMENTARY APPROPRIATIONS
Operations are funded through a permanent authority from Parliament (Revolving Fund) and Parliamentary appropriations voted annually.

The Revolving Fund allows the Board to make payments out of the Consolidated Revenue Fund for working capital, interim financing of operating costs and capital assets acquisitions. This authority requires that the aggregate of admissible working capital and net book value of capital assets does not exceed $15 million.

The Board is also financed in part by the Government of Canada through Parliamentary appropriations. The appropriations are voted annually to replenish the Revolving Fund for net acquisitions of capital assets and the admissible cost of operations. The basis of the appropriations provided to the Board does not parallel the accounting principles applied in preparing the financial statements since appropriations are primarily based on cash flow requirements. Consequently, items recognized in the statement of operations and the statement of financial position are not necessarily the same as those provided through appropriations from Parliament. Note 3 provides a reconciliation between the two bases of reporting.

NET CASH PROVIDED BY GOVERNMENT
The Board operates within the Consolidated Revenue Fund (CRF), which is administered by the Receiver General for Canada. All cash receipts are deposited to the CRF and all cash disbursements are paid from the CRF. The net cash provided by Government is the difference between all cash receipts and all cash disbursements including transactions with other Federal departments and agencies.

DUE TO (FROM) THE CONSOLIDATED REVENUE FUND
Due from the Consolidated Revenue Fund balance represents the amount of cash that the Board is entitled to draw from the CRF without further appropriations, in order to discharge its liabilities and the due to the Consolidated Revenue Fund balance represents the amount of cash that the Board has to pay to the CRF for the money received.

EXPENSE RECOGNITION
All expenses are recorded on the accrual basis.

PRODUCTION OF FILMS AND OTHER FORMS OF VISUAL PRESENTATIONS
All production costs are charged to operations in the year in which they are incurred and shown in the Statement of Operations as follows:

BOARD’S PROGRAM
All costs incurred for unsponsored productions, the Board’s share in co-productions and the excess of costs over the sponsor’s contribution for partially sponsored productions.

SPONSORED PRODUCTION
All costs incurred for fully sponsored productions and the sponsored costs of partially sponsored productions.

REVENUES
Revenues from production of films and other forms of visual presentations are accounted for at an amount equal to the sponsored production costs during the year in which these costs are incurred. Any profit is recognized in the year the production is completed.

Royalty revenues are recognized once all of the Board’s obligations have been fulfilled and its expenses have been accounted for, regardless of when the acquirer actually uses the work.

ACCOUNTS RECEIVABLE
Accounts receivable are stated at amounts expected to be ultimately realized. A provision is made for external accounts receivable where recovery is considered uncertain.

INVENTORIES
Materials and supplies are carried at cost.

Film prints and other forms of visual presentations held for sale are carried at the lower of cost of production and net realizable value. The cost of other prints is expensed on a current basis.
CAPITAL ASSETS
Capital assets are amortized on the straight line method over the estimated useful life of the assets, as follows:
- Technical equipment from 4 to 10 years
- Software & data processing equipment from 5 to 10 years
- Office furniture, equipment and other from 5 to 10 years
- Leasehold improvements terms of the leases

The Board has a collection of nearly 20,000 audiovisual works produced between 1895 and the present. This indeterminable collection is not intended for sale and does not have a measurable value. It has, however, been assigned a nominal value of $1 in the financial statements, appearing on the statement of financial position as capital assets to ensure that the reader is aware of its existence.

The Board enters into operating lease agreements to acquire the exclusive use of certain capital assets over the term of the lease. These rental fees are charged to operations in the year to which they apply. The Board also enters into capital lease agreements by which substantially all the benefits and risks inherent to ownership of the assets are transferred to the Board. The Board then records an asset and an obligation corresponding to the present value of the minimum lease payments, excluding the portion thereof relating to executory costs. The assets recorded from a capital lease agreement are amortized on the same basis as other assets owned by the Board and the obligations are amortized over the lease term.

EMPLOYEE FUTURE BENEFITS
PENSION BENEFITS
All eligible employees participate in the Public Service Pension Plan administered by the Government of Canada. The Board's contributions reflect the full cost as employer. This amount is currently based on a multiple of an employee's required contributions and may change over time depending on the experience of the Plan. The Board's contributions are expensed during the year in which the services are rendered and represent the total pension obligation of the Board. The Board is not currently required to make contributions with respect to any actuarial deficiencies of the Public Service Pension Plan.

SEVERANCE BENEFITS
Employees are entitled to severance benefits as provided for under labour contracts and conditions of employment. The cost of these benefits is accrued as employees render the services necessary to earn them. Management determined the accrued benefit obligation using a method based upon assumptions and its best estimates; such as, years of service, employees' status and departure statistics. These benefits represent the only obligation of the Board that entails settlement by future payment.

MEASUREMENT UNCERTAINTY
The preparation of these financial statements in accordance with Treasury Board accounting policies, which are consistent with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles for the public sector and year-end instructions issued by the Office of the Comptroller General, requires management to make estimates and assumptions that could affect the reported amounts of assets, liabilities, revenues and expenses reported in the financial statements. At the time of preparation of these statements, management believes the estimates and assumptions to be reasonable. The most significant items where estimates are used are the useful life of capital assets; allowances for doubtful accounts and the liability related to employee severance benefits. Actual results could significantly differ from those estimated. The estimates are reviewed periodically and as adjustments become necessary, they are reported in net cost of operations in the period in which they become known.

3. PARLIAMENTARY APPROPRIATIONS
The Board receives most of its funding through annual Parliamentary appropriations. Items recognized in the statement of operations and the statement of financial position in one year may be funded through Parliamentary appropriations in prior, current or future years. Accordingly, the Board has different net results of operations for the year on a government funding basis than on an accrual accounting basis. The differences are reconciled in the following tables:

5. EMPLOYEE FUTURE BENEFITS

PENSION BENEFITS
The Board and all eligible employees participate in the Public Service Pension Plan, which is sponsored and administered by the Government of Canada. Pension benefits accrue up to a maximum period of 35 years at a rate of 2 percent per year of pensionable service, times the average of the best five consecutive years of earnings. The benefits are integrated with Canada/Québec Pension Plans benefits and they are indexed to inflation.

Both the employees and the Board contribute to the cost of the Plan. The 2007 expense amounts to $3,684,589 (2006 - $3,867,894), which represents approximately 2.6 times the contributions by employees.

The Board’s responsibility with regard to the Plan is limited to its contributions. Actuarial surpluses or deficiencies are recognized in the financial statements of the Government of Canada, as the Plan’s sponsor.

SEVERANCE BENEFITS
The Board provides severance benefits to its employees based on years of service and final salary. This benefit plan is not pre-funded and thus has no assets, resulting in a plan deficit equal to the accrued benefit obligation. Benefits will be paid from future appropriations or other sources of revenue. Information about the plan, measured as at March 31, 2007, is as follows:

7. OBLIGATION UNDER CAPITAL LEASES

The Board has entered into agreements to rent technical, data processing and office equipment under capital leases. The assets have been capitalized using implicit interest rates varying from 7% to 14%. The related obligations are paid over a 3-4 year lease term. Minimum lease payments totalled $1,141,881 for the year ended March 31, 2007 (2006 – payments of $812,428). Interest of $88,326 (2006 – $229,320) was charged to operations.

The obligation under capital leases includes the following:

8. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

The Board is related in terms of common ownership to all departments, agencies and Crown corporations created by the Government of Canada. The Board enters into transactions with these entities in the normal course of business. During the year ending March 31, 2007, the Board leased accommodations from the Department of Public Works and Government Services Canada (PWGSC) for the amount of $7,022,116 (2006 - $6,883,007).

9. FAIR VALUE OF FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

Accounts receivable, deposits, accounts payable, accrued salaries and vacation pay and compensatory leave are incurred in the normal course of business. The carrying amounts of each of these accounts approximate their fair value because of their short-term maturity. There is no concentration of accounts receivable and, therefore, there is no significant credit risk.

The present value of the capital leases obligation based on current market interest rate of 11% is estimated at $1,115,804 (2006 - $1,115,804).

10. CONTRACTUAL OBLIGATIONS

The Board has long-term lease agreements for premises and equipment. The most significant of these agreements has been concluded with PWGSC for premises until 2017. Future minimum rental payments for the next five years and thereafter are as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Year</th>

</tbody>
</table>

From the amount of $49,748,000 for the lease for premises, agreements have been signed for $34,000 with outside parties and $49,714,000 with PWGSC.

11. CONTINGENCIES

The Board is subject to various legal claims arising in the normal course of its operations. In management’s view, the ultimate disposition of these claims is not expected to have a material impact on the financial statements.

12. COMPARATIVE FIGURES

Certain comparative figures have been reclassified to conform with the presentation adopted in 2007.

SOCIAL IMPACT

01. DRIVEN BY DREAMS / À FORCE DE RÊVES
Film as a vehicle of change: at the National Film Board of Canada, this preoccupation is as old as the institution itself. It was felt by the NFB’s founder, John Grierson, reflected year after year by our films, and it also propels such projects as Challenge for Change/Société nouvelle, which in the 1970s was determined that screenings should trigger debate and encourage people to act.

In time, new social patterns, different issues and modern technologies have pushed NFB artisans to rethink ways of meeting that goal of debate and action. The existence of our Web sites Parole citoyenne and CitizenShift, to take just two examples, is proof of this evolution.

Now as before, months or even years can separate the release of a film, set-up of a Web site or launch of a project from any concrete signs of impact within the social groups targeted. The summaries below bear witness to the changes that have occurred in various groups all over Canada over the past year, on behalf of which the NFB has been working with other bodies in the private and public sectors for one, two, even five years. An institution like ours must have this ability to provide support in the long haul, so that we can continue to fuel social transformation reflecting the values of Canadian society.
Wapikoni Mobile
Aboriginal filmmaking takes off

Three years, some 100 films, 500 Aboriginal young people trained in audiovisual production, 14 Canadian and international awards: to judge by the figures, the Wapikoni Mobile is a success! This travelling studio was created by director Manon Barbeau and her production company Les Beaux Jours with the support of the NFB. This year, Wapikoni Mobile has done even more by encouraging the creation of permanent studios, which together could constitute Quebec’s first Aboriginal audiovisual production co-operative.
With a socially committed filmmaker, a high-profile partner and experience (the NFB), plus the enthusiastic support of Aboriginal leaders and government partners, the Wapikoni Mobile was born under a lucky star. But it is first and foremost the talent of Aboriginal youth and their desire to share their experience and vision of the world that explains the reputation that the Wapikoni Mobile enjoys in a growing number of communities.

Kevin Papatie, Chanouk Newashish, Marie-Christine Petiquay, Samian, Mendy Bossum Launière and Gloria Coocoo are only a few of the many Aboriginal youth who have seized the opportunity of the Wapikoni Mobile to take their place in their communities and the world. Their stories, images and music have proven that Aboriginal young people in Quebec have dreams to share and things to say. Often, the screening of their first works has rekindled intergenerational dialogue. Presented “in town,” in festivals throughout Quebec and Ontario, as well as in Europe and the United States, their productions lay the groundwork for a promising Aboriginal cinema.

At the beginning of 2006, the Wemotaci Atikamekw Council was the first to announce that it was contributing $21,000, representing half of the cost of a permanent studio, which would have particularly good sound equipment given the explosion of local young musical talent. The other half of the cost would be picked up by Quebec’s Secrétariat aux affaires autochtones. In Kitcisakik, an Anishnabe Algonquin village in Abitibi, whose residents live without running water or electricity, it is the young people who are raising the necessary funds through small video production contracts. And even more recently, the Innu community of Masteuiash also decided to proceed with a similar project. The NFB is pleased that the communities are taking charge, proof of the projects’ relevance and importance.

In early 2007, Manon Barbeau was approached by the director of the First Nations Education Council, Lise Bastien, who wanted to provide the project with a second mobile studio. The Assembly of the First Nations of Quebec and Labrador reiterated its “absolute support” for the project, and the NFB, which hosts the Wapikoni Web site, confirmed its intention of remaining involved in the project over the long term as a co-producer. “Wapikoni’s scope has broadened considerably,” says Manon Barbeau. “I knew it would connect with young people, but I never expected this.”
Each year, Canadian Heritage invites young people between 12 and 18 to enter a national contest to create an anti-racism public service announcement in the form of a 60- to 90-second video. The top ten videos are broadcast on the CBC’s English and French national television networks, and their directors win a trip to the awards ceremony held in the National Capital Region on March 21, International Day for the Elimination of Racial Discrimination.

It was during an informal discussion that the NFB representative suggested that her organization could contribute to the project by giving introductory video-making seminars for teachers who wanted their students to participate. The partners wanted to increase the number of classes entering the contest and to improve the quality of the videos submitted. Canada Post provided financial support, and Panasonic, which donates a camcorder to each year’s winning schools, loaned the necessary equipment for the training.

The seminars, devised and delivered by the NFB based on needs determined by Canadian Heritage, were held for the first time in 2005-06 and met with immediate enthusiasm from the participating teachers.

In 2006-07, at the request of Canadian Heritage, the NFB, with its extensive knowledge of the educational sector and the bonds of trust it maintains with it, went even further, restructuring the workshops with a focus on addressing racism. A total of 17 half-day workshops were given by three highly qualified facilitators to some 250 Grade 5 and 6 and high school teachers across the country (including three French workshops in Winnipeg, Montreal and Moncton). Some older students also attended the workshops and subsequently served as project leaders for their classes. Two documents produced by the NFB for use during the workshops – the Facilitator’s Guide, which offers teachers suggestions for dealing with the subject in the classroom, and Resources for Educators and Students, a technical manual on video-making – are now available for free on the NFB Web site.

The number of films submitted this year (319), the quality of the ten winning videos (which will be shown throughout the year by CBC/Radio-Canada), and the numerous comments from participating teachers confirm the validity of this approach. The NFB Facilitator’s Guide and the Resources manual are immensely popular with educators and are now used in other contexts, especially in media literacy courses. Preparations for the 2007-08 competition are already underway. The NFB will train even more teachers and, making use once again of its expertise in organizing competitions, will also be involved in issuing the call for entries.

3. The videos can be viewed on the Canadian Heritage Web site at <www.pch.gc.ca/march-21-mars>
In 2003, when the NFB decided to co-produce Glynis Whiting’s The Weight of the World with the CBC (The Nature of Things, by David Suzuki), little was said about the worrying increase in childhood obesity.

The Weight of the World: quite a challenge!

Four years on, everyone’s talking about the problem, and by the end of 2006, more than 750,000 students all over Canada had taken up the Weight of the World Challenge, at school and at home, to fight obesity.

It all began in six Quebec schools in 2004. As part of a pilot project with Jewish Family Services, Weight of the World producers created a package for classrooms, containing information and activity suggestions to get students thinking about diet and obesity.

The project was an immediate success. Education and health professionals talked about classes where students questioned their peers about their eating habits and physical activity, inventing raps on the theme of food and cooking healthy dishes (with their parents!) for Healthy Recipe Food Fairs at school. At the end of 2005, despite limited resources, 260 schools and 45,000 pupils had taken up the challenge. Among the original activities that went on in schools were a giant conga line, a recipe book and pedometers so students could see how far they walked every day. These and other examples have been posted on the Weight of the World Challenge Internet site. Health and education professionals are providing more and more support.

In 2006, the NFB and CBC (which hosts the Weight of the World Challenge microsite on its Web site), in partnership with the Canadian Association for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance, and the Heart and Stroke Foundation launched the challenge nationally. Between March and May, 5000 copies of the DVD were given out free to schools and individuals all over the country: in a few months, hundreds of thousands of new students had seen the film. Following these successes, the NFB and CBC are hoping to broaden the network of partners, and in particular to adapt the material to the curricula of each province and to create learning resources aimed at younger pupils.
The CineRobotheque, the NFB’s downtown Montreal showcase, offers unparalleled access to the Film Board’s distinctive and relevant collection of audiovisual works in a one-of-a-kind cinematic experience.

“I know it is difficult, in the current commercial context, to attract the public to repertory theatres, and I congratulate you on doing so, on providing a centre for our films, giving a voice to our artists and enabling them to meet the public.”

Louise Portal
actress and novelist

“Film is one of the most compelling ways of expressing ideas. The combination of image with commentary, the filmmaker’s eye and viewpoint, spark reflection and reaction in the viewer. For this reason, since its founding in 2004 the Institut du Nouveau Monde has sought to use film to encourage debate on complex issues. The INM found the NFB an ideal partner for the screenings and discussions offered every night of its summer school sessions for young film buffs, and for those held every month at the NFB cinema on St. Denis Street, Montreal. Agreements signed with Parole citoyenne also allow students from the INM’s summer school to become acquainted with the medium and possibly find a place for themselves in the field of documentary film. The INM, a non-partisan organization dedicated to promoting active citizenship and promulgating new ideas, hopes to make this a long-term partnership.”

A centre for media literacy and a public access point for groundbreaking films from the NFB and around the world, the NFB Mediatheque in Toronto offers digital viewing stations, educational programming, screenings and special events. The Mediatheque brings the community together to communicate, celebrate and create.

“My son and I really enjoyed the March 17 Mediatheque animation workshop. I think it opened up a whole new world/medium for him. This is one of the few children’s events that I thought is creative, thought provoking and of great value. Film combines a number of artistic disciplines. Way better than standard camp stuff. Now Vincent wants to join future NFB events/camps.”

“The special evening organized by the National Film Board speaks to the genuine commitment you make to Canadian artists. In the question-and-answer period, I realized that there were many photographers and filmmakers whose work I have respected and admired. In the company of peers, it was a significant affirmation that my work was worthy of representation among the best that Canada has to offer. Thank you for that opportunity to stop for a moment and celebrate my own work.”

“The workshop leaders were excellent! Creative, enthusiastic, knowledgeable and patient! This is the best field trip we’ve had; I’m signing up right away for next year. I will come on the weekend, too! Thank you so much for a fabulous day! Your workshop leaders were great and the program was definitely a hit.”

“Our very own genius: A new collection shows how legendary animator Norman McLaren put Canada’s National Film Board on the world’s cultural radar.”

“I wish to congratulate the NFB and the entire creative team of The Danish Poet for the film’s grand success at the Academy Awards. I have been lucky to have had opportunities to enjoy NFB films, especially those by Norman McLaren and Ishu Patel. I wish to give a similar exposure to the 500+ students of our school…”

“Thank you for making The Danish Poet available on the Web. It was quite a treat to watch. And congratulations to all involved for their big win on the weekend — it’s a really great movie.”

Michael D’Costa

“I appreciate the events, especially the children’s workshop, the free film viewing on the premises and the information on e-mail about the up-coming events of NFB. Please keep it up.”

“I find the Film Club is a wonderful opportunity to see films I wouldn’t necessarily be able to see. I have a very busy schedule, and I can’t always track down NFB films. The Film Club allows me to keep up with what the Film Board is doing. I also like meeting the filmmakers. I hope you keep up the good work with this club.”

Lois Siegel

“I hope you will long continue your regular Film Club activities, which do so much to heighten awareness of the French-language films of Quebec by asking artists to talk about their favourite films. It’s an excellent idea. Keep up the good work: it’s a splendid venture.”

Michèle Tremblay

“The NFB Film Club is in my view enormously important, as it provides an officially sanctioned but original venue for exploration that does not have to confine itself to the creative sidelines. Your team does a fantastic job.”

Mario Normandin

“McLaren might be the most influential name in animation since Walt Disney... This extraordinary set includes 58 of his short films, unfinished works, interviews with McLaren and 14 (count ’em!) documentaries on different aspects of his art. Essential stuff.”

“The filmmakers also provide the micro realities behind Burtynsky’s macro visions ... The result [Manufactured Landscapes] is a highly unusual viewing experience that stimulates the senses and the conscience simultaneously. Burtynsky may be reluctant to pin his images down by attaching morals to them, but viewers will be unable to ignore the troubling questions they present.”

“This is the NFB’s 12th Oscar and its 69th nomination. Torill Kove had already had great success with her film My Grandmother Ironed the King’s Shirts. The talent of this Norwegian-born Canadian filmmaker is recognized abroad. Since its first screening in 2006, her film has been shown in the world’s leading animation and short film festivals. La Presse and Radio-Canada share the admiration felt by the juries who voted Torill Kove Personality of the Week.”
